ADMINISTRATION'S ECONOMY PROGRAM

ATTACKED BY DEMOCRATS TARIFF COMMISSION USELESS

It Is Claimed Altho They Admit Voting For the Measure, But Now Say the President Destroyed the Efficiency of the Commission by the Personnel He Put In It--It's Self Evident the Minority Party Has No Leader In Congress.

The administration's economy program assailed and defended during debate upon the appropriation bill for independent offices argued the chairmen of congressional campaign committees for the two parties, Representatives Will R. Wood, of Indiana, Republican, and William A. Oldfield, of Arkansas, Democrat, clashed over the question of the administration's efficiency.

Mr. Wood declared prosperity had come to the country thru Republican control and that 5,000,000 more laboring men were at work than were employed when President Coolidge took office.

Mr. Oldfield replied that the farming population "never has been in so bad a fix" and cited bank failures in agricultural regions.

The two were agreed that the Tariff commission was useless, but differed as to whose fault it was.

Mr. Wood, saying the commission was "worth nothing to the government," said it was one "of the evils forced on the country by the Democratic party."

Mr. Oldfield termed it a "millstone around the necks of the people, and, while admitting he voted for it, blamed the administration for what he called its present uselessness.

Representative John M. Garner, Texas, Democrat, declared that the president had "destroyed the efficiency of the commission by the personnel he has put in it."

Action of Republican leaders in deciding to curb congressional investigation was assailed by Representative Tom Connally, Texas, Democrat.

"It is rather strange," he said, "that this should come at a time when congress is ready to investigate the flood of recent mergers."

The Texan criticized the federal trade commission and the department of justice for alleged suppression and dilatory tactics in dealing with the Aluminum company of American.

"It is a terrible outrage," he remarked, "for us to turn the light on dark places."

The federal trade commission, Mr. Connally continued, instead of putting information of monopolies into the hands of the attorney general had "put it in private files and locked the door."

Accusing the administration of maintaining a policy of "acquiescence in the illegal practices of big business," he charged that under its regime "an economic autocracy" had grown up, with oil, bread and nearly every other necessity under nonopolistic control.

Representative Wood interrupted to say the federal trade commission could not reveal trade secrets gathered in the course of its duties.

Mr. Connally retorted that the president "had to be reminded before he proceeded against the bread bread trust."

Representative M. C. Garber, Okla.

FELDMAN UNDER ARREST.

Toledo—Sam Feldman, 18, who escaped in a stolen automobile when posses, after a running gun battle, captured three of his companions near Yelverton, Hardin county Thursday, was under arrest here in connection with the robbery of a hardware store at DeGraff, for which his companions were arrested.

homa, Republican, defended the administration, contending that bank failures in agricultural regions had been caused by "frozen credit, put into banks by the Democratic administration."

The "sound business policy of the present government," he continued, has brought prosperity to the nation. He had been unable to ascertain what the Democratic policies were, he said, "as nobody seemed to know."

PROFANITY IS PROFITABLE TO THIS MISS

Lorain, O., Feb. 20 (UP).—A tax on profanity is being levied at Lorain's city hall.

If you're inclined to cuss it's to your pecuniary advantage to avoid contact there.

Every time anyone cusses, he or she, as the case may be, is "fined" by Miss Mary Haas, secretary of the city auditor, or Miss Virginia Grant, stenographer.

The amount of contribution to their "cuss box" depends upon the magnitude of the profanity.

The girls keep themselves well supplied with candy purchased with money from the "cuss box."

An especially posed portrait of W. N. Doak, vice president and legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, a union of thousands of conductors, brakemen and flagmen in all parts of the United States. Mr. Doak looks out for their interests in any legislation before congress.

RELEASED ON BOND.

Dayton—Robert Graff, 17, son of a Middletown business man, was free today on a $500 bond, after having confessed that it was he who had run down and killed Thelma Willis, 7, while she was on her way home from school. She lived near Germantown. Every bone in her body was crushed.

APPOINTED REPRESENTATIVE.

E. S. Parsons, president of Marietta college, appointed R. Stewart Drum, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Drum, as representative of Marietta college to attend the state convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Columbus Saturday. He will visit his parents here Sunday and Monday.

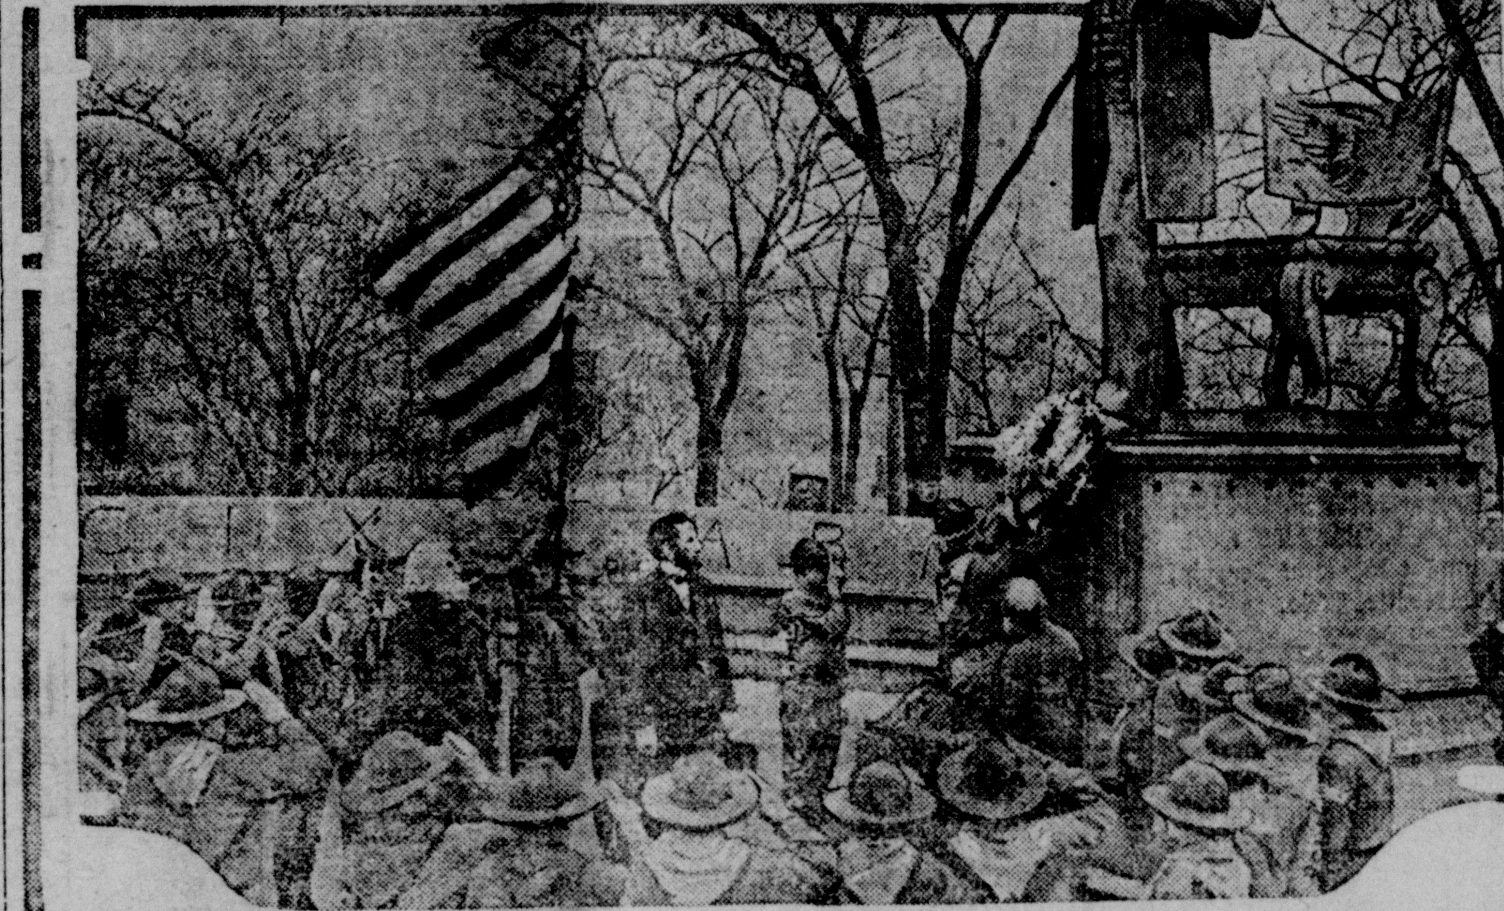

DIED SUDDENLY.

S. H. Meyers, of Detroit, Michigan, son of Mahlon Meyers, of Stoutsville, died suddenly Friday night.

The body will arrive in this city Tuesday forenoon and will be taken to the home of his parents, where a funeral service will be held on Wednesday.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

(United Press)

Cleveland—Albert Carelli, who is wanted by police of two states for robbery charges, must go back to Pittsburgh to face charges there, the Cuyahoga county court of appeals ruled Friday.

The appellate courts sustained Common Pleas Judge Chauncey Newcomer in his refusal to grant Carelli a writ of habeas corpus to prevent his return to Pittsburgh where he is wanted as a member of a "blue bandana gang."

Lorain—A rubber band found in his car resulted in the arrest of Edward Fred, police patrol driver on a charge of highway robbery. Edward McAndrews was arrested with him. They deny the charges. They were bound over to the grand jury on the charge of robbery.

Frey and McAndrews are accused of holding up and robbing George Mouldis of $100. The band found in Frey's car was identified by Mouldis as the band that was around his roll of money.

Delaware—Altho pedagogism and baseball are more or less foreign to each other, Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, may become one of those who will guide the future destinies of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Rickey, a Wesleyan alumnus, is one of four candidates nominated by the alumni for membership on the board of trustees. Other candidates include John W. Pontius, general secretary of the Columbus Y. M. C. A.; Sturges S. Dunham, New York patent attorney, and William Richards, Toledo banker.

Cleveland—Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, is considering the advisability of lending his aid in the federal investigation of the alleged gigantic alcohol trust uncovered here in the probe of the Superior Industrial Alcohol company, according to dispatches from Harrisburg.

Pinchot's entrance into the investigation is due primarily to the fact that headquarters of the alleged liquor combine were maintained in Philadelphia, dispatches said. Pinchot is already reported to have gathered valuable evidence which he will turn over to federal authorities.

CENTENARIAN CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY

Says Heart of the Modern
Girl is Just as Clean as
Were Her Ancestors.

Piqua, O., Feb. 20 (UP).—The modern flappers skirts may be daringly abbreviated; she may powder her nose and paint her cheeks, but her heart is just as clean as that of her forefathers.

This is the conclusion of Mrs. Margaret Hubbard, whose perspective is mellowed by 99 years. She has been married twice and has faith in matrimony.

Mrs. Hubbard, who is celebrating her birthday anniversary at her home here this week, is now in her hundredth year. She came here from Urbana in a horse-drawn vehicle. She recalls the palmy days of the Miami and Erie canal that then thrived with commerce. "Eat when you are hungry and drink when you're dry," is Mrs. Hubbard's secret of longevity.

She is the mother of Captain Frank Hubbard and Mrs. Mary Crowe of Piqua and Milton Crowe of Cincinnati.

HENRY FIELD CELEBRATES IN NOVEL WAY

Will Give a Present to All
Senders of Telegram From
February 22 to 24.

Henry Field, who is the "Henry Ford" of the seed business, and owner of the well known station "KFNF" at Shenandoah, Iowa, celebrates Washington's birthday February 22, in his own inimitable way. Mr. Ford has been invited to attend a monster "Old Time Fiddlers' contest" which will be a part of the program.

Because of a record-breaking business and since "KFNF's" second anniversary falls on Washington's birthday, Mr. Field will give away to every one who sends him a telegram between the hours of 7 a. m. February 22 and 12 noon the 24th, a prize worth the cost of the telegram or more.

A Hart Parr tractor valued at $1,500, about fifty radio sets valued up to $200 each, 500 Steinito interference eliminators selling for $1 each, radio batteries, loud speakers, etc.

Cream separators, cultivators, incubators, brooders, auto starting devices 5 gallon cans oil, pressure cookers, kitchen utensils, etc.

Food products of all kinds, meats, canned goods, coffee, candy, 4 packages each of macaroni products, etc.

And in addition, Mr. Field has set aside 20,000 rose bushes at 65c each, 10,000 apple trees, 2,000 Rogers silver souvenir spoons at 50c each, pigs, dogs, etc.

Prominent stations all over the country are cooperating and KFNF's power now raised to 1,000 watts, on a wave length of 263 meters Mr. Field hopes to reach every single hamlet in the country, so that everyone can enjoy some of the more than $20,000 worth of prizes that will be given away.

The local telegraph office will remain open as long as is necessary to handle the expected hearty response to Mr. Field's invitation.

BOX COMPANY IN OPERATION ONCE AGAIN

The bursting of a 12 foot driven wheel, and the putting out of commission a 27 foot fly wheel, and generally wrecking the interior of the engine room, did not dismay Charles E. Raney, the superintendent of the big paper mill.

The accident last Tuesday was the worst that ever befell the old mill and threw 225 men out of work temporarily. To bring order of chaos and start the mill running was up to Mr. Raney and he was equal to the occasion. Friday the mill secured by freight two motors, one a fifty horse power and the other a 250 horse power. The two weighed 8,250 pounds and were brought to this city on a flat car attached to the regular passenger train from Cincinnati. Three hours after the car arrived the motors were at the mill and the plant was running at 7 o'clock and will continue to run Sunday in order to keep up with orders.

Mr. Raney says the credit of the getting the mill in shape to run so quickly following the accident is due to the splendid cooperation of the mill boys, who stayed right on the job till the wheels started to revolve.

AMBULANCE SERVICE.

Miss Katharine Wigginton, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, recently, was brought home in Mader & Ebert's ambulance Friday.

$70,000 HEART BALM AWARDED OHIO TEACHER

Portsmouth, Feb. 18.—Lorraine Schlichter, school teacher, was awarded $70,000 heart balm by a jury here today in her $150,000 breach of promise suit against John F. Taylor, prominent local automobile dealer.

The verdict followed an hour and a half after Judge James S. Thomas in his charge to the jury had ordered it to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff and to set the amount of damages.

Nine jurors concurred in the verdict. In a civil case of this nature only three-fourths of the jury need to concur.

Counsel for the defense immediately announced it would file a motion for a new trial.

The course of proceedings took a surprising turn when, after ordering the jury to retire and after hearing arguments from counsel on both sides, Judge Thomas sustained a motion of plaintiff's counsel for a directed verdict.

The judge admonished the jurors that the court has to determine the question of the law and the jury the question of fact.

The court pointed out considerations which the jury should make in determining the amount of damages, the financial circumstances of the defendant, the worldly advantage of a marriage which would have given her a permanent home and an advantageous establishment and injury to plaintiff's future prospects of marriage.

During the argument by her counsel the plaintiff sat with tears streaming down her face and, when she left the courtroom, it was with her face heavily shrouded in the blue chiffon scarf she had worn throughout the progress of the case.

John F. Taylor, who is 48 years old, has lived in Scioto County all his life. He became prominent through his ownership of the Taylor Universal Motor Co., in which business he has been engaged many years.

The trial brought out that Mr. Taylor is worth about $300,000 and that his income the past two years has been about $40,000.

Taylor has two daughters, Helen, 17, and Mrs. Mary Taylor-Gordon, 26. Taylor's first wife died in 1923.

Miss Lorraine Schlichter, 40, has been a teacher in the local schools. Her father died about the time of the death of Mrs. Taylor. Mutual sorrow was given by Miss Schlichter as one of the reasons for the attraction of Taylor and herself for each other.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS

Washington, Feb. 18.—(UP.)—A protest against the expulsion from Mexico of American protestant missionaries, Catholic priests and nuns, was made in the House today by Rep. Boyland, New York, Dem. Boyland announced that he would demand action next week on his resolution calling on the state department to ask Mexico for all information on its expulsion of American clergymen from Mexico.

A bill designed to place flying officers in command of all naval aviation activities was approved today by the House Naval Committee. The bill is in accord with recommendations of the President's special aircraft board. It confers temporary high rank on flying officers placed in command of air stations and schools.

A resolution requesting the state department to inform the government has refused to permit publication of recent correspondence on relations between the United States and Mexico, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska. Upon request of Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, it went over until tomorrow.

A survey of federal and state jails, penitentiaries and asylums to determine how many alien inmates are subject to deportation, was ordered today by Assistant Secretary of Labor Robert Carl White. Immigration Commissioner Harry Hull directed all immigration inspectors throughout the country to begin the survey immediately.

President Coolidge was forced to take to his bed today by the heavy cold which he contracted Tuesday. After vainly trying to fight it off Tuesday night and Wednesday the president gave in to the orders of his personal physician, Major James W. Coupal, called off all engagements today and retired. White House attaches minimize his indisposition saying it is only a "heavy cold" and not even the grippe which is widespread here.

Help "Little Brothers"

The Australian "big brother" movement, founded by Richard Linton, himself an Australian, is sending out its first group of 150 little brothers. The boys are leaving England for Australia to learn farming. On their arrival in Australia they will be welcomed by and taken to the homes of 150 big brothers. Soon afterward opportunities to learn farming will be provided. The boys will be watched over, cared for and made to feel that there is always a friend to whom they can turn in difficulty or distress. As more little brothers follow the first contingent, more big brothers will be waiting at the other end of the journey to give them a welcome.

A RELIC OF CIVIL WAR DAYS TURNED UP
Recently County Auditor Bryce Briggs received a letter from E. G. Snodgrass, of Levasy, Mo., inquiring if a $5 script issued by Pickaway County had monetary value.
Auditor Briggs wrote to Mr. Snodgrass to send the script to him and he would look the matter up; in consequence of which he went to the record of 1862 showing the minutes of the board of County Commissioners wherein he found that in 1862, August 12th, the Board in response to a petition signed by a large number of taxpayers, ordered an issue of $20,000 for military work and for relief of the families of volunteers. The script was printed on linen bond paper; the face of the script was as follows:
"No. 126. Jan. 10, 1863. PICKAWAY COUNTY RELIEF FUND.
Pickaway County will pay Five Dollars to Bearer at the Treasury of said County with 6 per cent interest from date. Redeemable at the pleasure of the County any time after twelve months. Provided the issue is ratified by Legislature of Ohio. Done in pursuance of and order of the County Commissioners, Dated Aug. 12, 1862. For the relief of Families of Volunteers. Jno. Groce, Treas. C. A. Bitzer, Aud. On the reverse side The names of the County Commissioners appeared, C. F. Macklin, James Reber, William Fleming."
The script has no monetary value at this time.

AROUND THE WORLD
Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger On Board The Empress.
We have received during the past week a copy of The Daily Empress from Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger who are now on a cruise around the world. The newspaper is printed daily on board "The Empress," the vessel on which they are making the trip.
The letter was mailed, under date of January 12, 1926, and the vessel had just left Palestine, Egypt, and would next dock at Bombay, India.
One paragraph from The Empress states: "Among those who made the pilgrimage to the quarries of Solomon, tunnelled 700 feet under the present city of Jerusalem, on the night of December 26, were 42 members of the Empress of Scotland World Cruise Masonic club. To them this vast cavern is the birthplace of Free Masonry, instituted by King Solomon about 975 B. C.—Williamsport News."

To Be Accepted Guardedly
Doctor Porkory of Berlin is a courageous man, no doubt, but his findings are to be used with discretion. He asserts that the people with Mongol features, straight black hair, oblique eyes and thick lips who are found in isolated parts of Ireland and Scotland are "anthropologically to be regarded as Eskimo origin. This may be all right, anthropologically speaking. But for practical purposes visitors to those parts had better agree with the familiar theory which traces back the ancestry of all hard-hitting Celts to Brian Baru and the kings of Erin's Golden age. Eskimos, says he. Why they'll be saying penguins and walrus next!—Baltimore Sun.
Your life is what you make it—if somebody doesn't butt in.

Wind God a Snake
In ancient Mexico the wind deity was represented by some form of a snake, a curious fact which archeologists have not been able to understand. The snake usually took a fantastic shape, having feathers, others having two forelegs thrown in for good measure and a curious snout like a trumpet. The Mexican Indian name for the wind god was "Quetzalcoatl."

Added to Spain's Riches
The Spaniards discovered gold in South America in 1498, from which time until 1781 they carried from South America 6,000 millions of "pieces of eight" in registered gold and silver, exclusive of what was unregistered. One piece of gold weighing 90 pounds troy, was found near La Paz, a town in Peru, in 1736.

When Anybody Buys an Automobile
Whoever you are, wherever you are, you are immediately and definitely benefited when anybody buys an automobile. For the owner of that car earns more money, spends more money, does more work, enjoys life more, and means more to himself and his community than he did before. And the man who buys the car is benefited more than anyone else.
As we see it, this house is more than a purveyor of good automobiles—it is a local institution contributing to the happiness and prosperity of the community. We'd like to tell you more about it; drop in any time.

WASHINGTON

The one hundredth and ninety-fourth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be observed on February 22, by civic and social societies and his farewell address will be read in legislative halls and in the schools of this nation.

George Washington was born at Pope's Creek, Westmoreland county, Virginia and died at Mt. Vernon, December 14, 1799. At 19 he was appointed inspector of militia of Virginia with the rank of major. War between England and France over American territory had started and at 21 Washington was put in command of a small body of troops as lieutenant colonel. January 6, 1759, he was married to Martha Custiss, who has since been known as Martha Washington. About fifteen years later the struggle for American independence began and on June 21, 1775, he started from Philadelphia on horseback to take command of the American army encamped around Boston. The story of the Revolutionary war is a story in itself, more or less familiar to every American school boy and girl. After eight years of untold hardships and fierce fighting the war ended. He served as president of the Continental convention and on April 6, received every vote from ten states and was elected the first president of the United States. His service as president, his farewell address, his life and letters constitute the basis of American history and American doctrines. He passed away on Saturday night, December 14, 1799, at his home at Mount Vernon.

Washington looms majestically over all history because his hand was powerful in freeing and founding a nation that has become the greatest and most powerful on earth. In this day his last words are worthy of particular attention:

"Observe good faith and justice with all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct and can it be that good policy does not equally enjoin it?"

These are the old ideals that have made this nation great.

Our participation in the World war and influences, financial and political, to interest the United States in world affairs, in hope of promoting permanent peace, has had a tendency to relegate not only the maxims, but the historical wisdom of our dead leaders.

It is argued that should any of the great political or religious leaders of the past return to earth, after having been dead for a hundred years, the least congenial associates they could find would be their disciples.

Patriotic followers of the great dead too often overlook the fact that changed conditions and altered needs necessitate a facing of today's facts instead of living in ancestral worship.

It means that we should imbibe the courageous and creative spirit that enabled our leaders to become great and apply it to today's facts and needs with the same undaunted courage and candor that they would exercise if here.

If George Washington had slavishly followed his fathers we would still be a British colony. Before criticizing China and other nations for ancestral worship, we should be sure that we have acquired a safe and sane system regarding our own ancestors.

Homespun Are in Winsome PatternsNew Spring Woolens Include Plain Colors, White and Checked Designs.

The newer woolens for the spring season include homespun, both imported and domestic, in plain colors, in white and in the new tiny checked patterns. This checked design is particularly good in beige and brown, the brown used for the check on a beige ground. Kasha and silk-and-wool jersey follow the fashionable pastel shades, the "off" or, as they are variously termed by the fashion magazines, the "dusky" or "dusty" colors of beige and rose.

The tweeds for the new season come in plain colors, in small checks or in large plaided effects. The two-toned tweeds that have a reverse side in a lighter color will be a delight to the home dressmaker, for she may use the underside for trimming a coat or a dress.

Then there is a new imported woolen fabric called "frisca," a fabric with a ratine weave and a frosted appearance, which is very fashionable in the early spring fashions designed for southern wear. Its domestic counterpart is known as "Francesca," and comes in the same lovely colors of gray, apple green, rose and beige as the original. Wool taffeta is another fabric used for some of the new frocks, and fine wool rep, especially in navy blue, is very good for spring. In one of the early spring showings was noticed a navy blue cheviot used for a sailor jacket, trimmed with regulation gilt buttons, and worn with a white kasha skirt and the new broad-trimmed felt hat.

Without any doubt the new styles have had their effect on these woolens. The supple, lithesome lines that swing with motion and are straight and clinging in quiescence demand the fabrics be equally supple and light, and these two qualities distinguish the woolens for spring. Indeed, they are almost as easy to manipulate as silks.

Silks this season are divided into plain colors and prints. Among the plain color fabrics are the new so-called "raw" silks, shantung, tussar, rajah, pongee, that are enjoying so wide a vogue in two-piece frocks for the South. Plain color crepes de chine in sports ensembles consisting of a one-piece frock and a circular shoulder cape to match are also very fashionable. Taffetas, too, are smart for spring in colors like navy blue, fawn, beige and even white.

Girdle, Brassiere and Athletic Belt Popular

With the latest fashions in lingerie is the girdle, the brassiere, the athletic belt, or whatever answers in lieu of the old-style stays. The new version of the corset is presented in many attractive models. Most of them are made of silk or near silk, of brocade or some novelty material, daintily flowered or figured muslin. A popular form of girdle is made of satin ribbon, two or three inches wide, which is laid with overlapping edges around the body and so arranged as to fit the figure. To this may be attached side garters, or it may be worn with equal convenience without the elastic, if round garters are used. Women who eliminate as much as possible in underclothing wear "corsets" of finely tucked batiste or satin or of lace. The brassieres of Irish, of flannel and of the novelty all-over laces are most attractive. Some extreme novelties are trimmed with metal lace or are made entirely of gilt or silver lace, lined with crepe or chiffon.

From Paris have been received many pretty jackets to be worn in bed, or for other purposes.

New Wide Hats

The large hats are not being overlooked during the winter resort season. Indeed they are of such size that it is impossible to overlook them. The majority are of hair braid, but some models have been designed in satin.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT IN FULL SWAYMonroe, New Holland and Pickaway are Winners in Hard Fought Games.

The Basketball tournament is in full sway.

The Monroe boys won a close game from Salt Creek by a 11 to 10 score. This game required an overtime period. The only score was the result of a foul.

New Holland bested Scioto in one of the best high school games ever played on the C. A. C. floors. The game was in doubt up to the last minute. No more than four points separated the teams at any one time. The game ended New Holland 26 Scioto 22.

Lyons, left guard, was the star of the game, making 15 of the team's points. Cook, big center for New Holland played a splendid game, as back guard. Trego was Scioto's main cog, with Furnis a capable running mate.

Williamsport surprised many by holding Pickaway to a tie until the final minutes, when Enoch and Rittinger gathered several pretty shots and put them in the lead 22-15 at the final whistle. Enoch played best for Pickaway, while Radcliff and Lanman played best for Williamsport.

The Evolution of Jack's Bean Stalk

THAT must have been a tough old bean-stalk that permitted Jack to climb to the giant's castle in the clouds. In height it out-distanced the Tower of Babel, which aimed at heaven but never got there.

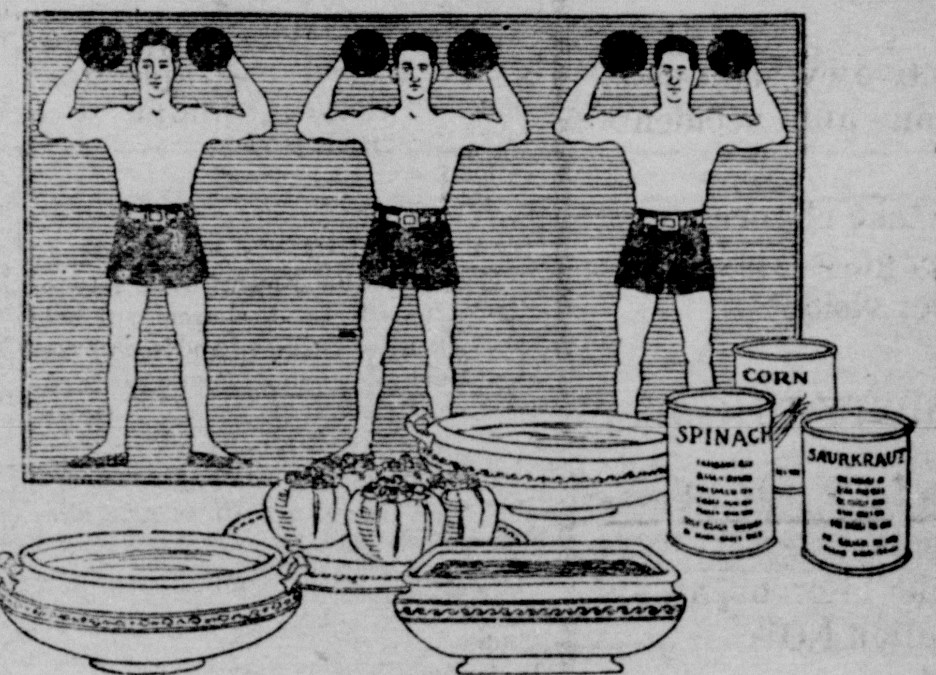

If the stringless beans we have today were as tough as those on Jack's picturesque ladder must have been, they would not be as popular as they are. The modern "stringless bean" is not one of the miracles performed by that wizard of plant life, Luther Burbank, but is an achievement of the canning industry.

Only when she buys them in a can is the housewife able to save herself the trouble of "stringing" beans. The commercial cannery, with its highly perfected equipment, has relieved her of this burden.

Now is the time to eat stringless beans, because of their remarkable cheapness. Owing to the unusually large crops, last summer, the canners put up an enormous amount of this healthful and delicious food, and therefore are selling at a great reduction, in order to reduce their large stock on hand. So the consumer is reaping the benefit. And the thrifty housewife will take advantage of the "special sales", to stock her supply-shelf with a goodly amount of stringless beans, rejoicing that she may thus practice economy and at the same time save herself time and trouble.

Besides cooking stringless beans in white sauce or butter, here is a delicious way of serving them "peasant fashion":—

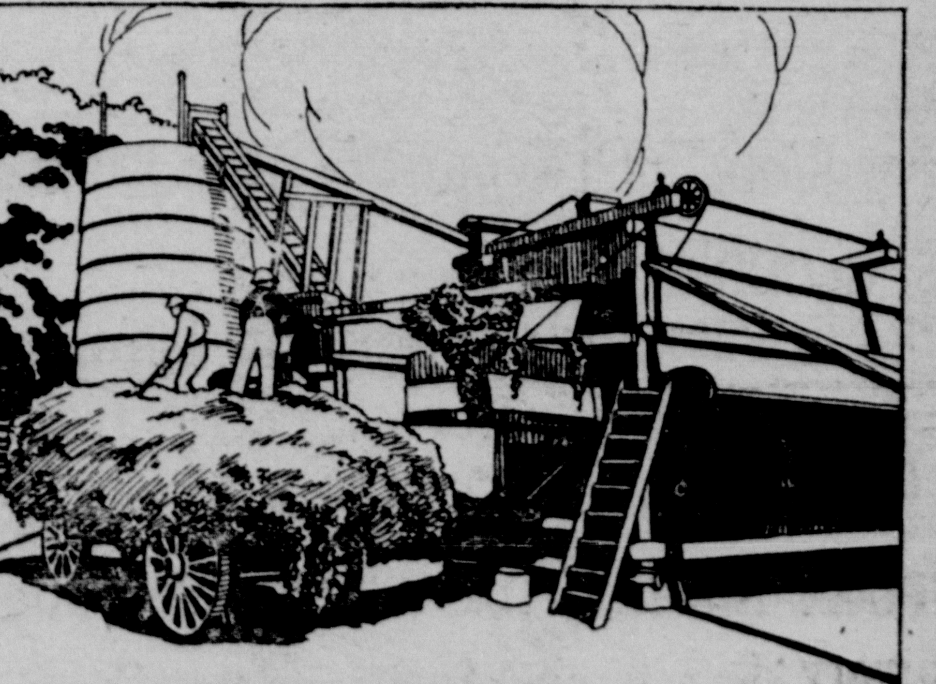

Simmer contents of a No. 2 size can of beans with one ham bone or a half-pound of bacon fat, for an hour. Season, and serve with vinegar. The bean's lack of fat is thus supplied.

IN the past, people were inclined to eat what they wanted, regardless of whether it was good for them, and got away with it because of their active, physical lives. But we moderns, who get so much less exercise, are learning that we need to eat foods which will keep the system open and cleansed from poisonous waste matter.

Vegetables and whole wheat bread best answer this purpose. City people eat too much meat and white bread. Certain vegetables which rank high as system-cleansing—and therefore health-building—foods are spinach, sauerkraut, tomatoes, peas, stringless beans and corn. All are rich in vitamins and in the elements which are body-builders and sources of heat and energy. In addition, they supply bulk and roughage. Spinach and sauerkraut are particularly valuable as brooms, to sweep out the digestive tract. The lactic acid of sauerkraut makes it an excellent disinfectant, besides. It is regarded as one of the most powerful preventive and corrective foods.

Spinach and sauerkraut have recently been added to the list of canned foods, and scientific tests prove that both retain their valuable properties in the can. In fact, in the case of spinach, it has been discovered that the canned product is from five to ten times richer in Vitamin C than home-cooked spinach. Canned tomatoes are known to be one of the richest sources of vitamins. Beans, peas and corn rank almost equally high as health-builders. The convenience of having all these foods in ready-to-serve form cannot be over-estimated.

Some Facts About Peas

IT'S no "Irish bull" to say that canned peas are fresher than many of the fresh peas we buy. The reason is that the vinery is practically next door to the cannery. The vines are mowed down in the early morning, and the entire canning process is completed before night. But the so-called "fresh" peas, after being shipped from farm to market and thence to the consumer, are seldom really fresh when they reach the table.

Moreover, peas come out of the can as fresh as when they went in, because the complete exclusion of the air, and the process of sterilization eliminate all possibility of deterioration.

Grade, in canned peas, is merely a matter of size. Before the peas enter the cans, they are graded; first being sifted through the different-sized meshes of five "squirrel-cage" machines, and afterward picked over by hand. The smallest are the tenderest, but the largest contain more food value.

Appetizing dishes that may be made from peas are:—

Baked Peas—Heat in their own liquor the contents of two cans of peas. Drain, pour into baking-dish and season. Break six eggs over peas, dot with butter and bake ten minutes in hot oven. This will serve six and will take the place of meat.

Peas En Casserole—Put 24 small white onions into casserole. Add 2 cans of peas, including liquor; 6 tablespoons butter, 2 bunches parsley, 1 teaspoon powdered mint, and seasoning. This makes enough for six.

AMUSEMENTS

Jack Holt has been called upon to flirt with extreme danger on many occasions during his screen career with Paramount, but it is safe to say that he will always remember his many thrilling escapes during the filming of
"The Ancient Highway."

from James Oliver Curwood's story, teems with thrills.

Holt was first called upon to engage in a smashing fist encounter with Montagu Love. The action called for Holt to have traveled all around the world to find Love and avenge his father's death, caused by Love's machinations.

Holt tracks Love to the office of the latter, Love in the intervening years having become a multi-millionaire profiteer in the lumber business. In Love's office Holt and Love battle to a finish, urged on by Director Irvin
Willat, who insisted on a real fight.
And it was a real fight.

Later, in one of the sequences of the story, Holt was called upon to race down a raging torrent in a frail canoe just ahead of close to a million onrushing logs.

Holt's efforts were directed in getting to a certain point ahead of the log jam and there set off a number of sticks of dynamite, real dynamite, too.

This accomplished, the theme takes another sensational turn, calling for Holt to go to the rescue of an assistant, who had slipped and was caught in the logs close by the dynamite charge.

The many thrilling sequences were accomplished without any serious injury despite the chances taken, but Holt claims he will always remember the deep full breath he took when the picture was finished.

In "The Ancient Highway," due on Monday at the Met theater, the featured players are Jack Holt, Billie Dove and Montagu Love.

x x x x x x x x
x HARTMAN THEATER. x
x x x x x x x x

The biggest thrill of many seasons in the American theater was provided late in the summer of 1924 when
"What Price Glory" burst on Broadway with a report which has echoed across the continent. "What Price Glory" is the only play about the war of which men who have been in the thick of it say; "This is it!"
"What Price Glory" comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus, for one week beginning Monday February 22, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

This picture of the war is revealed almost unconsciously by its authors.
Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson never planned to make history with their play. Their modest intent was to tell the story—a grinning comedy, in truth—of a battle between two hardboiled Marines for the favors of a peasant girl in a shell-torn corner of France.

But so alive, throbbing and hard-fisted are those characters, so vivid are the scenes, that those who have yearned to know how the war looked and felt and tasted come away from
"What Price Glory" with the conviction that they now know something of the war as these men know it. Gargantuan figures they are, Flagg and Quirt. Beasts, men and gods—something of each. To know them is to see life magnified, made more beautiful, more horrible, more devilish and more divine than we, in our cramped lives, can hope to live it.

Captain Flagg and Sergeant Quirt, as impersonated by Louis Wolheim and William Boyd, are unforgettable.
Indeed the whole company of Marines, French peasants, staff officers and camp followers is so perfectly cast that the play offers a cross section of the French front seen thru the eyes of a laughter loving American.

"What Price Glory" was born of the experiences of Laurence Stallings on the battle fields of France. Its characters and incidents are lifted from life. Veterans of the Marine corps visit the play again and again to greet with cheers of laughter and reminiscent chuckles the whole string of characters and incidents of the story.

To the men who were over there,
"What Price Glory" will recall the most acute moments of their lives.
To the millions of others it has the incalculable value of satisfying a hunger to know what the World war really meant. Here it is—the grinning, brutal, heroic truth.
See it! Then—you'll know.

ONE POINT GAINED

By Persons Who Follow Almanac Signs In Planting.

Phoenix, Adiz., Feb. 18.—(U.P.)—Ancient superstitions regarding the advisability of planting crops when the moon was in certain phases may turn out to have a sound basis in scientific fact.

This surprising statement was made here today at the convention of the Southern section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. D. T. MacDougal, one of the world's chief authorities on plant life.

Dr. MacDougal pointed out that while moonlight is reflected sunlight, it is peculiar in that it consists of what scientists call polarized light. Ordinary light consists of light waves vibrating in all directions. Polarized light consists of light vibrating in one direction only.

"British scientists claim to have discovered that plants grow faster in polarized light," Dr. MacDougal told the convention. "If this is true, it may constitute one of the most important discoveries ever made in the study of plants."

"The committee on photosynthesis of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the committee concerned with the plant life, of which I happen to be chairman, regards these British announcements of such importance that we are planning to have the experiments repeated in this country and probably will invite some of the British workers to visit this country."

"In this connection, it should be pointed out that recent studies seem to show that certain bacteria grow faster in polarized light."

"For example, there is a bacteria which causes dead fish to rot and makes them appear phosphorescent when seen lying on the beach at night."

"This bacteria apparently grows faster in polarized light, for recent experiments seem to show that fish rot faster in polarized light."

Dr. MacDougal pointed out that there have been cases in the past where certain superstitions were based on accumulated experience of the human race and so turned out finally to have actual foundations in fact.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A most enjoyable day was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of Groveport, on February 12.

This being their fortieth wedding anniversary, their children planned to surprise them by having a family dinner. As they had not thought of the event, it proved to be a successful surprise.

The baskets were soon relieved of their burdens and the table, which seated nineteen, fairly groaned with its load of good things to eat. Fluttering red hearts adorned the dining room and table.

Those present were Dr. S. D. Graumlich and family, Orren Smith and family, Walter Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and Mr. and Mrs. William Miller.—Pickaway County News.

Politeness Extraordinary

A trained nurse in Touro infirmary says the politest and most grateful man she ever met is a patient in her ward, who was eloquent and profuse in his thanks when she gave him a big dose of castor oil.

Ended Enforced Servitude

The habit of sending people to America to be made indentured servants was discontinued at the time of the American revolution. The habit of sending maidens to become the wives of colonists was discontinued the latter part of the Seventeenth century or the early Eighteenth.

Suspensions About Wall Street and How They Arise

By FRANCIS H. Sisson, President
Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association

WOULD-BE economists, political orators and the general public make frequent positive assertions about the functions of Wall Street without any realization of what constitutes Wall Street or what purpose it serves. Lack of knowledge breeds suspicion. Yet it is not difficult to understand the nature and function of Wall Street. Let us set down a few of the facts which account for the existence and nation-wide, as well as international, services of Wall Street.

There are 316 banks in New York with combined capital and surplus of about $1,400,000,000. Their deposits aggregate over $11,500,000,000, and during 1924 their total volume of business reached nearly $250,000,000,000. The New York Stock Exchange in 1925 sold 433,000,000 shares of stock and in 1924 $3,828,000,000 worth of bonds. Wall Street is the national credit and money market. It is just as essential that there be markets for money and for stocks, bonds, mortgages and other securities as for cotton, corn, tobacco, wheat, hogs and other commodities.

If Wall Street Were Destroyed

Wall Street is the natural evolution of the forces of trade and finance. It exists because there is imperative need for it in the nation's business. If some cataclysm should destroy the financial district of New York we would see frantic efforts to re-establish it so that trade and industry could continue. If the production and marketing of agricultural and industrial commodities did not need such a financial institution, Wall Street would not exist.

We depend upon the farmer to help maintain the general level of prosperity. Wall Street as a money market is called upon to finance the growth and marketing of farm crops. Many Wall Street bankers were born and raised on farms. If they were not thoroughly familiar with agricultural requirements, they could not hold their present positions in the financial world.

In the period of deflation, Wall Street suffered proportionately as much as the farmer. The aggregate losses of Wall Street banks amounted to a staggering sum. Wall Street is not an independent institution, but an organic part of the country's business system, necessarily reflecting the ups and downs of business.

Four Billion Dollars

An approximate estimate of the main items in Wall Street's financial operations in handling farm crops shows that New York banks for the purpose of agriculture put out commercial loans to the value of one billion dollars, hold bankers' acceptances for another billion, buy commercial paper such as cattle and sheep loans for a third billion and carry balances of country banks for a fourth billion. Thus Wall Street furnishes a $4,000,000,000 river of credit annually to produce farm products and float them to market.

The outward flow to rural banks enables them to make the required advances on farm crops and for warehousing and handling cotton, tobacco, wheat, raisins, prunes and countless other products. Outside of his own personal efforts on his farm, Wall Street is the biggest single factor in the prosperity of the farmer. After these commodities have been moved to market, the money used in handling them returns to Wall Street for investment. New York is the largest security market in the country and offers a use and market for the idle capital of the rural banks between crops.

Funds from every part of the country flow to New York, attracted by the greater opportunity for their profitable use found in this center. Thus the accumulations of deposits are large, and in turn the openings for the useful employment of these funds in

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY ON "BAD LUCK"

"The Brownes are unluckiest people I ever saw, Aunt," remarked Emma, as she and Aunt Emmy walked by their house. "They were just getting on their feet after James lost so much money in stocks. Maud told me only last week that he was putting his savings in government bonds now. Yesterday his office was robbed and the bonds stolen out of his desk. Five $100 bonds gone. It's the only money they have been able to save since he lost his savings in that radio stock."

"That certainly is bad luck, if you call it bad luck," commented Aunt Emmy. "I call it stupidity, myself."

"Stupidity! why Aunt Emmy, how could James know that thieves would get in his office?" exclaimed Emma. "It doesn't seem stupid to me."

"I don't want to be too hard on James, my child, but if he had only used ordinary precautions, he need not have lost what was for him a large amount of money on that radio stock and he surely need not have had those bonds stolen."

"Why Aunt, James isn't a mind reader or a fortune teller."

"No, of course he isn't. But neither is every successful business man a seer. Luck is ninety per cent common sense. If James had gone to his banker and asked him to look up the radio company whose stock he was thinking of buying, the chances are that he never would have bought it after he got the bank's report. Banks can get the record of any company issuing stock and if the company is not well financed, if it has not been paying dividends, if the officers of the company are not men with clean, honest records, the bank can find that out. The radio company that James invested in made a disgraceful failure a month after he bought his stock. If he had taken the trouble to find out something about it first, doubtless he would have that money today."

"Well, Aunt, that may be true about the stock, but who in the world would anticipate thieves?"

"Anybody who reads the papers today knows that thieves are pretty active," said Aunt Emmy dryly. "Why ignore them? If James had kept his bonds in a safe place, at a bank, he would have had them yet. James has been careless, if not actually stupid. His bad luck is mostly James himself."—Anne B. Aymes.

BANKERS HELP

The Minnesota Bankers Association at its annual convention adopted the following resolution:

"We believe it to be the duty of every banker in the state of Minnesota to co-operate with our Agricultural Committee and to call the attention of its farmer patrons to the excellent work being done by our Agricultural College, and the means thereby available for the improvement of farming conditions and for the practical education of the boys and girls from our farms."

EAT FRUIT AND KEEP THIN

Those seeking to melt the too abundant if not too solid flesh that surrounds them find a valuable aid in most of the fruits except bananas, which are largely made up of starch and fattening. Sweets are craved by every human being and are a necessity for health and vigor. But sweets are menaces to the sylph-like figure if taken in the ordinary form of desserts, cakes, pies and the like made from sugar.

They are religiously forbidden by those directing the diet of the man or woman determined to reduce the waist line and other too opulent curves. But the sugar must be taken somehow and fruit offers the solution and in a form which does not put on fat.

A diet recommended consists of fresh fish, lean meats and chicken, eggs, bread in small quantities when stale or toasted, fresh green vegetables, and all kinds of fruit except bananas. Fruits both fresh and stewed without sugar are permissible in the diet of the person seeking to grow thinner.

An apple or an orange or a bunch of grapes is a life saver when the pangs of hunger set in between meals because they can be eaten without the danger of undoing the work of abstinence from the fat-forming foods.

Baked apples, orange juice or pulp, grapefruit, grapes, and the small fruits eaten without sugar or cream are all easily digested and will not add an ounce of superfluous weight. If thoroughly ripe so that the fruit sugars are properly developed they will supply a sufficiency of sweets to the dieting person and satisfy the craving.

Save Carpenter's Bill

Before sending for a carpenter when a door sticks, see if the screws of the hinges are tight. Frequently that is all that is the matter and a screwdriver will quickly remedy the trouble. Should the door refuse to hold up with just this tightening, try replacing the screws with the next size larger.

Here's Latest Menu for Most Effective Washington Party

A particularly novel and pleasing effect for a Washington birthday anniversary party may be obtained by serving a dish or two suggestive of some phase in the life of the "father of our country." Washington was a lover of good food, as indicated in the personal cookbook of his wife, Martha. Her interesting manual of cooking contains many things—fiction, history and a glossary of unused terms, as well as such quaint directions to a mouth-watering result as the following:

"To make an humble pie," she wrote, "take ye humbles of a deer or a calve's heart, or pluck a sheep's heart, perboyle it & when it is cold shread it small with beefe suet & season it with cloves, mace, nutmeg & ginger beaten small & mingle with it currans & Salt, put all into ye pie & set it in the oven an houre, then take it out, cut it up and put in some claret wine, melted butter & sugar beat together, then cover it a little & serve it up."

"Humble pies" have been lost sight of in the years, but we have many suggestive dishes which may be used effectively in connection with the Washington party. The following are examples of what may be accomplished:

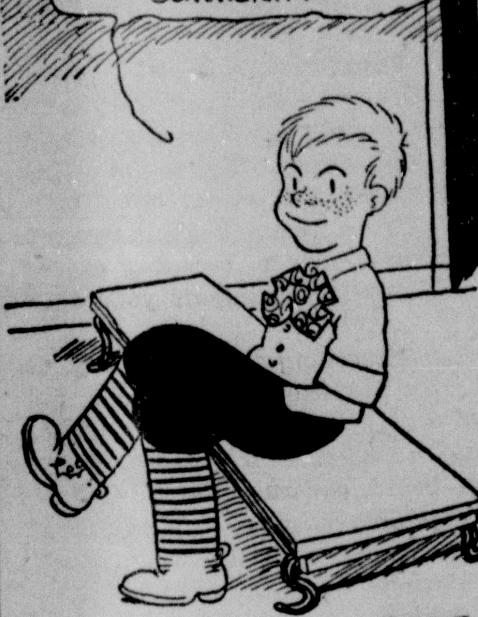

Menu No. 1
Cherry Cocktail
Maryland Chicken
Butterscotch Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Cabbage
Crabapple Jelly
Red Cabbage Salad
Washington Pie
Salted Nuts

Cherry Cocktail
1 cup red canned cherries
1 cup white canned cherries
Drain cherries from liquid and stone. Add lemon juice and grape fruit to give a tart taste. Chill and when ready to serve pour into tall cocktail glasses. Sprinkle top with shredded cocoanut.

Maryland Chicken
Two 2½ lb. chickens (unfilled)
Salt
Pepper
1 cup evaporated milk diluted with 1 cup water
Dress, clean and cut up chickens. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs. Place in a well oiled dripping pan, and bake twenty minutes in a 450° F. oven.

One Idea of Opportunity

Too many people think opportunity means a chance to get money without earning it.—Milwaukee Leader.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

"The president has asked all the governors to appoint delegates to a national safety convention to assemble in March. While we know of no formula to meet the situation he has outlined the conference may write history by focusing public attention on the national aspects of a problem made up of a multitude of incidents at street corners and cross roads. Many communities are at work seeking and applying remedies.

The figures set forth in this article certainly ought to be a very convincing argument for

TAX SETTLEMENT.

Pickaway county stands eleventh in the list in making its tax returns and settlement with the state.

Hotbed Is Help to Early Garden

Protection From Cold Winds and Warm Sunlight Is Important.

To have plants in time for the early garden hotbeds and cold frames may be used by the home gardener with good results. Both of these garden accessories are easily built with small expense.

Places for Hotbeds.

"January is the time to prepare the hotbed over most of the central South," says Robert Schmidt of the department of horticulture at North Carolina State college. "Place the hotbeds in a sheltered spot with a southern exposure. There they will be protected from the cold winds and will receive the warm sunlight. The cold frames should be handy to both the house and the garden, so that they can receive constant attention. The soil in and around the frames needs to be well drained."

Professor Schmidt states that a hotbed six by six feet will be large enough for the average garden. Standard hotbed glass sash are three by six feet and can be bought or made at home.

Heating Material.

Fresh manure containing about one-third straw litter makes the best heating material for the hotbed. The manure must first be piled up under a shed until it begins to heat and should be turned each two or three days until the whole mass is heating evenly. The pit in which it is placed should be about eighteen inches deep. Pack in the manure to within about four inches from the top and then build the frame out of inch boards to fit over the pit.

Do not put in the seeds until the first heating is over and the temperature has fallen to about 85 or 90 degrees, advises Professor Schmidt. Some moisture must also be added.

The cold frame is made in about the same way as the hotbed except that no heating material is needed. This frame is used to harden off plants from the hotbed before setting them in the open garden. The frame should be covered with a light canvas or heavy muslin.

Proper Food and Light Are Poultry Essentials

Feeds containing vitamin A, and arrangements for direct sunlight to utilize the vital ultra-violet ray are as necessary part of the poultry farm equipment as chicken houses and pens, experiments of recent years at the Kansas State Agricultural college under the direction of the poultry husbandry department and Dr. J. S. Hughes of the chemistry department have shown.

To prevent roup, according to Doctor Hughes, the flock must be fed such things as yellow corn, alfalfa hay, or green leaves—foods which contain vitamin A. Weak legs in growing chicks can be cured by treatment with ultra-violet light either from direct sunlight or from the quartz tube mercury vapor arc lamp. Foods rich in vitamin D also are a corrective for this condition.

Barley Used in Laying Mash Meets With Favor

Farmers with barley to be used as poultry feed, might use it to the best advantage by adopting the Cornell scratch grain and mash mixture for laying hens. The scratch grain formula consists of 500 pounds of cracked corn, 200 pounds of wheat, 200 pounds of barley and 100 pounds of heavy oats. If good heavy oats are not available, they advise leaving the oats out of the scratch grain mixture.

In the laying mash 100 pounds of ground barley is used in place of the ground oats usually recommended in a ration of that type. The mash consists of 100 pounds each of yellow corn meal, ground barley, middlings, bran and meat scrap containing 50 to 55 per cent protein. Three pounds of fine table salt should be thoroughly mixed in each 500 pounds of the laying mash.

Exercise for Brood Sow

The brood sow should get plenty of exercise during the winter months. The sow that keeps out of doors most of the time when the weather is good is much more likely to produce a strong litter than the sow that lies around in the barn or shed. A sow that is too fat will not produce a strong litter of pigs—neither will she be able to take as good care of them. Give the brood sows the run of a pasture lot during the winter if possible, and scatter some feed over the ground so they will be induced to take plenty of exercise.

FARM NOTES

Grow a cash crop. Once a year it will bring in quite a sum of money.

Just minding his own business will keep a farmer going all the time 12 months of the year.

An acre of twenty-bushel corn fodder made into silage will put twice as much gain on live stock as it will if fed from the shock.

Produce something that your neighboring farmers will want to buy. It may be seed, breeding stock or some variety of food that they don't raise.

PARENTS FIND GOOD BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

"If you are a father, how much study do you make of the business of fatherhood?" asks Professor M. V. O'Shea in his reading course "Our Children," published by the American Library association and just received at the Circleville Public Library. "If you are a mother, which comes first in the budgeting of your time and energy—your children or other matters?" "How many books have you read with a view of securing expert counsel in the rearing of your children?"

After discussing the complexity of child life, physical, mental, social and moral development, the teen age, etc., the author suggests for reading a half dozen books covering the fundamentals of child training. He says that in his selection of books he was careful to recommend only those which are readable and which can be easily adapted to practical use by the average father and mother.

The first book suggested is "The Child, His Nature and His Needs." This volume should be of value to all students of children, teachers and intelligent parents. In our own library it seems to be the outstanding book in its field. So far, however, it has found its way chiefly into the hands of the teachers, tho it is an especially desirable book for the parents themselves. Its modest cost would be a wise investment for parents and no doubt many who read the library copy will want to purchase one for their home libraries.

The Ohio Parent-Teacher Magazine recently published a study outline for clubs based on this book.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham of North Court street, are entertaining little Joan Jones, of Columbus, a three year old niece of Mrs. Graham.

The Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood held its regular meeting Thursday, February 18, in the social room of the church with E. E. Wolf presiding. Following the business meeting a splendid buffet lunch was served by Frank Palm and his assistants. The following program was given:

The first subject, "What the Farmers are Up Against," Clarence Ater being absent the subject was thoroughly discussed at the close of the meeting.

The next speaker, Lawrence Goeller, gave one of his famous talks on "Business," which the chamber of commerce and a number of other organizations have enjoyed so much. A certain writer said "Spoil the child's imagination and you have spoiled the foundation of the child's knowledge." Mr. Goeller pointed out how business imagination is just as important to the business man.

The next subject, "Thoughts on Lent" by C. L. Mack. He very forcibly pointed out what the Lenten season should mean to each and every one of us.

The next meeting, March 4, the Ashville Brotherhood will be guests and George C. Griffith, as master of ceremonies assures a good program and all members should be present.

ATTEND THE BIG SUPPER ON NEXT MONDAY EVENING GIVEN BY THE METHODIST BROTHERHOOD.

JARVIS PROMOTED.

ATTACKED BY DEMOCRATS TARIFF COMMISSION USELESS

It Is Claimed Altho They Admit Voting For the Measure, But Now Say the President Destroyed the Efficiency of the Commission by the Personnel He Put In It--It's Self Evident the Minority Party Has No Leader In Congress.

The administration's economy program assailed and defended during debate upon the appropriation bill for independent offices argued the chairman of congressional campaign committees Will R. Wood, of Indiana, Republican, and William A. Oldfield, of Arkansas, Democrat, clashed over the question of the administration's efficiency.

Mr. Wood declared prosperity had come to the country thru Republican control and that 5,000,000 more laboring men were at work than were employed when President Coolidge took office.

Mr. Oldfield replied that the farming population "never has been in so bad a fix" and cited bank failures in agricultural regions.

The two were agreed that the tariff commission was useless, but differed as to whose fault it was.

Mr. Wood, saying the commission was "worth nothing to the government," said it was one "of the evils forced on the country by the Democratic party."

Mr. Oldfield termed it a "millstone around the necks of the people, and, while admitting he voted for it, blamed the administration for what he called its present uselessness.

Representative John M. Garner, Texas, Democrat, declared that the president had "destroyed the efficiency of the commission by the personnel he has put in it."

Action of Republican leaders in deciding to curb congressional investigation was assailed by Representative Tom Connally, Texas, Democrat.

"It is rather strange," he said, "that this should come at a time when congress is ready to investigate the flood of recent mergers."

The Texan criticized the federal trade commission and the department of justice for alleged suppression and dilatory tactics in dealing with the Aluminum company of American.

"It is a terrible outrage," he remarked, "for us to turn the light on dark places."

The federal trade commission, Mr. Connally continued, instead of putting information of monopolies into the hands of the attorney general had "put it in private files and locked the door."

Accusing the administration of maintaining a policy of "acquiescence in the illegal practices of big business," he charged that under its regime "an economic autocracy" had grown up, with oil, bread and nearly every other necessity under monopolistic control.

Representative Wood interrupted to say the federal trade commission could not reveal trade secrets gathered in the course of its duties.

Mr. Connally retorted that the president "had to be reminded before he proceeded against the bread trust."

Representative M. C. Garber, Okla.

homa, Republican, defended the administration, contending that bank failures in agricultural regions had been caused by "frozen credit, put into banks by the Democratic administration."

The "sound business policy of the present government," he continued, has brought prosperity to the nation. He had been unable to ascertain what the Democratic policies were, he said, "as nobody seemed to know."

PROFANITY IS PROFITABLE TO THIS MISS

Lorain, O., Feb. 20 (UP).—A tax on profanity is being levied at Lorain's city hall.

If you're inclined to cuss it's to your pecuniary advantage to avoid contact there.

Every time anyone cusses, he or she, as the case may be, is "fined" by Miss Mary Haas, secretary of the city auditor, or Miss Virginia Grant, stenographer.

The amount of contribution to their "cuss box" depends upon the magnitude of the profanity.

The girls keep themselves well supplied with candy purchased with money from the "cuss box."

RELEASED ON BOND.

Dayton—Robert Graff, 17, son of a Middletown business man, was free today on a $500 bond, after having confessed that it was he who had run down and killed Thelma Willis, 7, while she was on her way home from school. She lived near Germantown. Every bone in her body was crushed.

APPOINTED REPRESENTATIVE.

E. S. Parsons, president of Marietta college, appointed R. Stewart Drum, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Drum, as representative of Marietta college to attend the state convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Columbus Saturday. He will visit his parents here Sunday and Monday.

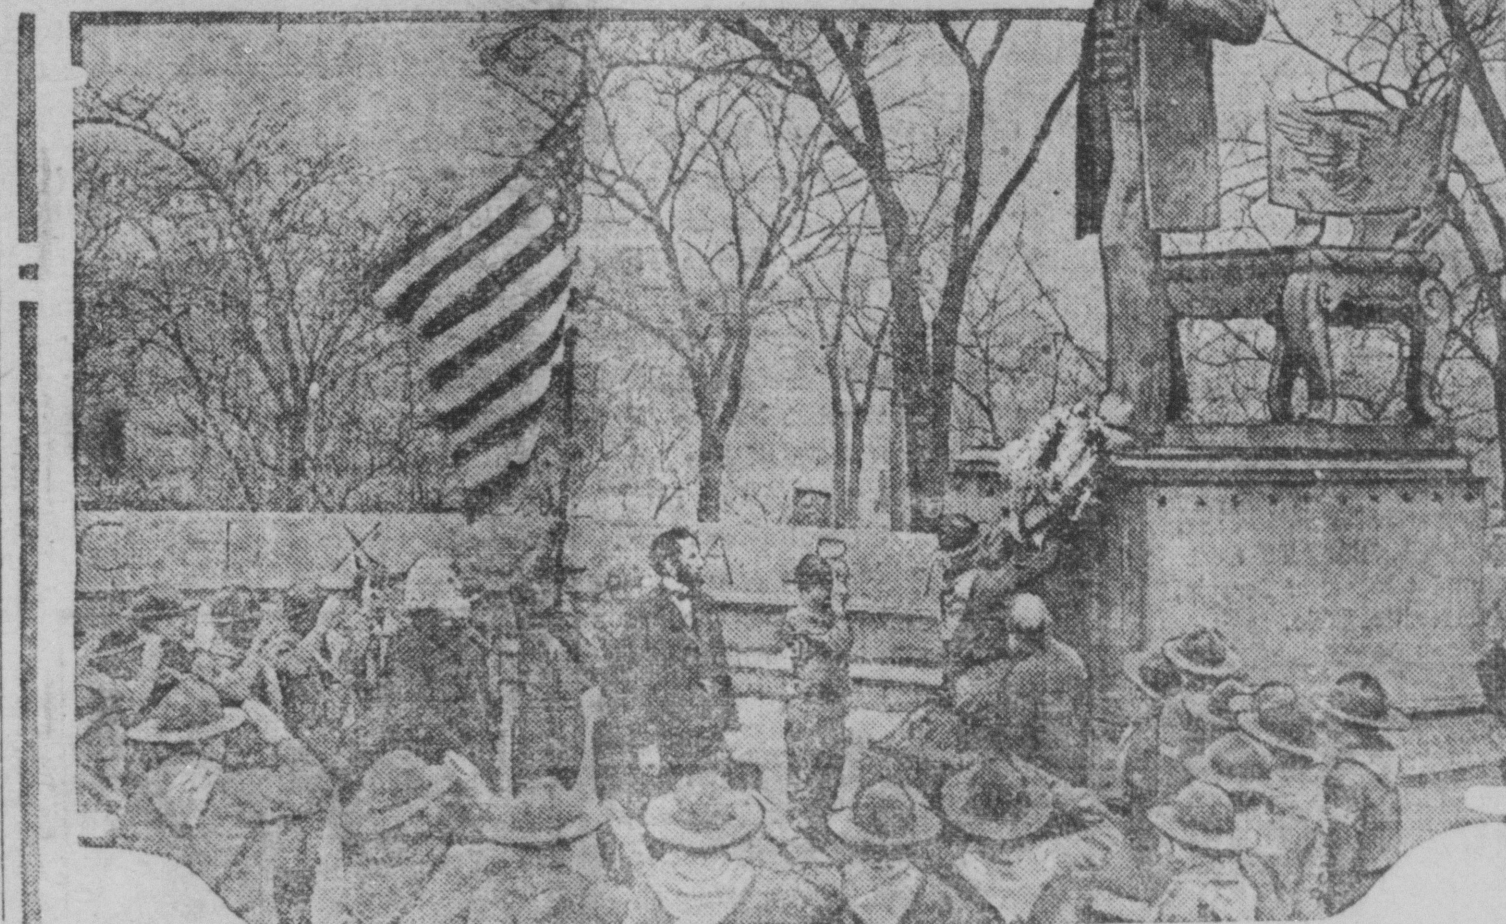

DIED SUDDENLY.

S. H. Meyers, of Detroit, Michigan, son of Mahlon Meyers, of Stoutsville, died suddenly Friday night.

The body will arrive in this city Tuesday forenoon and will be taken to the home of his parents, where a funeral service will be held on Wednesday.

Cleveland—Albert Carelli, who is wanted by police of two states for robbery charges, must go back to Pittsburgh to face charges there, the Cuyahoga county court of appeals ruled Friday.

The appellate courts sustained Common Pleas Judge Chauncey Newcomer in his refusal to grant Carelli a writ of habeas corpus to prevent his return to Pittsburgh where he is wanted as a member of a "blue bandana gang."

Lorain—A rubber band found in his car resulted in the arrest of Edward Fred, police patrol driver on a charge of highway robbery. Edward McAndrews was arrested with him. They deny the charges. They were bound over to the grand jury on the charge of robbery.

Frey and McAndrews are accused of holding up and robbing George Mouldis of $100. The band found in Frey's car was identified by Mouldis as the band that was around his roll of money.

Delaware—Altho pedagogism and baseball are more or less foreign to each other, Branch Rickey, business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, may become one of those who will guide the future destinies of Ohio Wesleyan university.

Rickey, a Wesleyan alumnus, is one of four candidates nominated by the alumni for membership on the board of trustees. Other candidates include John W. Pontius, general secretary of the Columbus Y. M. C. A.; Sturges S. Dunham, New York patent attorney, and William Richards, Toledo banker.

Cleveland—Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, is considering the advisability of lending his aid in the federal investigation of the alleged gigantic alcohol trust uncovered here in the probe of the Superior Industrial Alcohol company, according to dispatches from Harrisburg.

Pinchot's entrance into the investigation is due primarily to the fact that headquarters of the alleged liquor combine were maintained in Philadelphia, dispatches said. Pinchot is already reported to have gathered valuable evidence which he will turn over to federal authorities.

CENTENARIAN CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY

Says Heart of the Modern
Girl is Just as Clean as
Were Her Ancestors.

Piqua, O., Feb. 20 (UP).—The modern flappers skirts may be daringly abbreviated; she may powder her nose and paint her cheeks, but her heart is just as clean as that of her forefathers.

This is the conclusion of Mrs. Margaret Hubbard, whose perspective is mellowed by 99 years. She has been married twice and has faith in matrimony.

Mrs. Hubbard, who is celebrating her birthday anniversary at her home here this week, is now in her hundredth year. She came here from Urbana in a horse-drawn vehicle. She recalls the palmy days of the Miami and Erie canal that then thrived with commerce. "Eat when you are hungry and drink when you're dry," is Mrs. Hubbard's secret of longevity.

She is the mother of Captain Frank Hubbard and Mrs. Mary Crowe of Piqua and Milton Crowe of Cincinnati.

HENRY FIELD CELEBRATES IN NOVEL WAY

Will Give a Present to All
Senders of Telegram From
February 22 to 24.

Henry Field, who is the "Henry Ford" of the seed business, and owner of the well known station "KFNF" at Shenandoah, Iowa, celebrates Washington's birthday February 22, in his own inimitable way. Mr. Ford has been invited to attend a monster "Old Time Fiddlers' contest" which will be a part of the program.

Because of a record-breaking business and since "KFNF's" second anniversary falls on Washington's birthday, Mr. Field will give away to every one who sends him a telegram between the hours of 7 a. m. February 22 and 12 noon the 24th, a prize worth the cost of the telegram or more.

A Hart Parr tractor valued at $1,500, about fifty radio sets valued up to $200 each, 500 Steinito interference eliminators selling for $1 each, radio batteries, loud speakers, etc.

Cream separators, cultivators, incubators, brooders, auto starting devices 5 gallon cans oil, pressure cookers, kitchen utensils, etc.

Food products of all kinds, meats, canned goods, coffee, candy, 4 packages each of macaroni products, etc.

And in addition, Mr. Field has set aside 20,000 rose bushes at 65c each, 10,000 apple trees, 2,000 Rogers silver souvenir spoons at 50c each, pigs, dogs, etc.

Prominent stations all over the country are cooperating and KFNF's power now raised to 1,000 watts, on a wave length of 263 meters Mr. Field hopes to reach every single hamlet in the country, so that everyone can enjoy some of the more than $20,000 worth of prizes that will be given away.

The local telegraph office will remain open as long as is necessary to handle the expected hearty response to Mr. Field's invitation.

BOX COMPANY IN OPERATION ONCE AGAIN

The bursting of a 12 foot driven wheel, and the putting out of commission a 27 foot fly wheel, and generally wrecking the interior of the engine room, did not dismay Charles E. Raney, the superintendent of the big paper mill.

The accident last Tuesday was the worst that ever befell the old mill and threw 225 men out of work temporarily. To bring order of chaos and start the mill running was up to Mr. Raney and he was equal to the occasion. Friday the mill secured by freight two motors, one a fifty horse power and the other a 250 horse power. The two weighed 8,250 pounds and were brought to this city on a flat car attached to the regular passenger train from Cincinnati. Three hours after the car arrived the motors were at the mill and the plant was running at 7 o'clock and will continue to run Sunday in order to keep up with orders.

Mr. Raney says the credit of the getting the mill in shape to run so quickly following the accident is due to the splendid cooperation of the mill boys, who stayed right on the job till the wheels started to revolve.

AMBULANCE SERVICE.

Miss Katharine Wigginton, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, recently, was brought home in Mader & Ebert's ambulance Friday.

$70,000 HEART BALM AWARDED OHIO TEACHER

Portsmouth, Feb. 18.—Lorraine Schlichter, school teacher, was awarded $70,000 heart balm by a jury here today in her $150,000 breach of promise suit against John F. Taylor, prominent local automobile dealer.

The verdict followed an hour and a half after Judge James S. Thomas in his charge to the jury had ordered it to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff and to set the amount of damages.

Nine jurors concurred in the verdict. In a civil case of this nature only three-fourths of the jury need to concur.

Counsel for the defense immediately announced it would file a motion for a new trial.

The course of proceedings took a surprising turn when, after ordering the jury to retire and after hearing arguments from counsel on both sides, Judge Thomas sustained a motion of plaintiff counsel for a directed verdict.

The judge admonished the jurors that the court has to determine the question of the law and the jury the question of fact.

The court pointed out considerations which the jury should make in determining the amount of damages, the financial circumstances of the defendant, the worldly advantage of a marriage which would have given her a permanent home and an advantageous establishment and injury to plaintiff's future prospects of marriage.

During the argument by her counsel the plaintiff sat with tears streaming down her face and, when she left the courtroom, it was with her face heavily shrouded in the blue chiffon scarf she had worn throughout the progress of the case.

John F. Taylor, who is 48 years old, has lived in Scioto County all his life. He became prominent through his ownership of the Taylor Universal Motor Co., in which business he has been engaged many years.

The trial brought out that Mr. Taylor is worth about $300,000 and that his income the past two years has been about $40,000.

Taylor has two daughters, Helen, 17, and Mrs. Mary Taylor-Gordon, 26. Taylor's first wife died in 1923.

Miss Lorraine Schlichter, 40, has been a teacher in the local schools. Her father died about the time of the death of Mrs. Taylor. Mutual sorrow was given by Miss Schlichter as one of the reasons for the attraction of Taylor and herself for each other.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS

Washington, Feb. 18.—(UP.)—A protest against the expulsion from Mexico of American protestant missionaries, Catholic priests and nuns, was made in the House today by Rep. Boyland, New York, Dem. Boyland announced that he would demand action next week on his resolution calling on the state department to ask Mexico for all information on its expulsion of American clergymen from Mexico.

A bill designed to place flying officers in command of all naval aviation activities was approved today by the House Naval Committee. The bill is in accord with recommendations of the President's special aircraft board. It confers temporary high rank on flying officers placed in command of air stations and schools.

A resolution requesting the state department to inform the Senate whether the Mexican government has refused to permit publication of recent correspondence on relations between the United States and Mexico, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska. Upon request of Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, it went over until tomorrow.

A survey of federal and state jails, penitentiaries and asylums to determine how many alien inmates are subject to deportation, was ordered today by Assistant Secretary of Labor Robert Carl White. Immigration Commissioner Harry Hull directed all immigration inspectors throughout the country to begin the survey immediately.

President Coolidge was forced to take to his bed today by the heavy cold which he contracted Tuesday. After vainly trying to fight it off Tuesday night and Wednesday the president gave in to the orders of his personal physician, Major James W. Coupal, called off all engagements today and retired. White House attaches minimize his indisposition saying it is only a "heavy cold" and not even the gripe which is widespread here.

Help "Little Brothers"

The Australian "big brother" movement, founded by Richard Linton, himself an Australian, is sending out its first group of 150 little brothers. The boys are leaving England for Australia to learn farming. On their arrival in Australia they will be welcomed by and taken to the homes of 150 big brothers. Soon afterward opportunities to learn farming will be provided. The boys will be watched over, cared for and made to feel that there is always a friend to whom they can turn in difficulty or distress. As more little brothers follow the first contingent, more big brothers will be waiting at the other end of the journey to give them a welcome.

A RELIC OF CIVIL WAR DAYS TURNED UP

Recently County Auditor Bryce Briggs received a letter from E. G. Snodgrass, of Levasy, Mo., inquiring if a $5 script issued by Pickaway County had monetary value.
Auditor Briggs wrote to Mr. Snodgrass to send the script to him and he would look the matter up; in consequence of which he went to the record of 1862 showing the minutes of the board of County Commissioners where-in he found that in 1862, August 12th, the Board in response to a petition signed by a large number of taxpayers, ordered an issue of $20,000 for military work and for relief of the families of volunteers. The script was printed on linen bond paper; the face of the script was as follows:
"No. 126. Jan. 10, 1863. PICKAWAY COUNTY RELIEF FUND.
Pickaway County will pay Five Dollars to Bearer at the Treasury of said County with 6 per cent interest from date. Redeemable at the pleasure of the County any time after twelve months. Provided the issue is ratified by Legislature of Ohio. Done in pursuance of and order of the County Commissioners, Dated Aug. 12, 1862. For the relief of Families of Volunteers. Jno. Groce, Treas. C. A. Bitzer, Aud. On the reverse side The names of the County Commissioners appeared, C. F. Macklin, James Reber, William Fleming."
The script has no monetary value at this time.

AROUND THE WORLD

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger On Board The Empress.

We have received during the past week a copy of The Daily Empress from Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Schoedinger who are now on a cruise around the world. The newspaper is printed daily on board "The Empress," the vessel on which they are making the trip.
The letter was mailed under date of January 12, 1926, and the vessel had just left Palestine, Egypt, and would next dock at Bombay, India.
One paragraph from The Empress states: "Among those who made the pilgrimage to the quarries of Solomon, tunnelled 700 feet under the present city of Jerusalem, on the night of December 26, were 42 members of the Empress of Scotland World Cruise Masonic club. To them this vast cavern is the birthplace of Free Masonry, instituted by King Solomon about 975 B. C.—Williamsport News.

To Be Accepted Guardedly
Doctor Porkory of Berlin is a courageous man, no doubt, but his findings are to be used with discretion. He asserts that the people with Mongol features, straight black hair, oblique eyes and thick lips who are found in isolated parts of Ireland and Scotland are anthropologically to be regarded as of Eskimo origin. This may be all right, anthropologically speaking. But for practical purposes visitors to those parts had better agree with the familiar theory which traces back the ancestry of all hard-hitting Celts to Brian Baru and the kings of Erin's Golden age. Eskimos, says he. Why they'll be saying penguins and walruses next!—Baltimore Sun.
Your life is what you make it—if somebody doesn't butt in.

Wind God a Snake
In ancient Mexico the wind deity was represented by some form of a snake, a curious fact which archeologists have not been able to understand. The snake usually took a fantastic shape, having feathers, others having two forelegs thrown in for good measure and a curious snout like a trumpet. The Mexican Indian name for the wind god was "Quetzalcoatl."

Added to Spain's Riches
The Spaniards discovered gold in South America in 1498, from which time until 1781 they carried from South America 6,000 millions of "pieces of eight" in registered gold and silver, exclusive of what was unregistered. One piece of gold weighing 80 pounds troy, was found near La Paz, a town in Peru, in 1736.

WASHINGTON

The one hundredth and ninety-fourth anniversary of the birth of George Washington will be observed on February 22, by civic and social societies and his farewell address will be read in legislative halls and in the schools of this nation.

George Washington was born at Pope's Creek, Westmoreland county, Virginia and died at Mt. Vernon, December 14, 1799. At 19 he was appointed inspector of militia of Virginia with the rank of major. War between England and France over American territory had started and at 21 Washington was put in command of a small body of troops as lieutenant colonel. January 6, 1799, he was married to Martha Custiss, who has since been known as Martha Washington. About fifteen years later the struggle for American independence began and on June 21, 1775, he started from Philadelphia on horseback to take command of the American army encamped around Boston. The story of the Revolutionary war is a story in itself, more or less familiar to every American school boy and girl. After eight years of untold hardships and fierce fighting the war ended. He served as president of the Continental convention and on April 6, received every vote from ten states and was elected the first president of the United States. His service as president, his farewell address, his life and letters constitute the basis of American history and American doctrines. He passed away on Saturday night, December 14, 1799, at his home at Mount Vernon.

Washington looms majestically over all history because his hand was powerful in freeing and founding a nation that has become the greatest and most powerful on earth. In this day his last words are worthy of particular attention:

"Observe good faith and justice with all nations; cultivate peace and harmony with all. Religion and morality enjoin this conduct and can it be that good policy does not equally enjoin it?"

These are the old ideals that have made this nation great.

Our participation in the World war and influences, financial and political, to interest the United States in world affairs, in hope of promoting permanent peace, has had a tendency to relegate not only the maxims, but the historical wisdom of our dead leaders.

It is argued that should any of the great political or religious leaders of the past return to earth, after having been dead for a hundred years, the least congenial associates they could find would be their disciples.

Patriotic followers of the great dead too often overlook the fact that changed conditions and altered needs necessitate a facing of today's facts instead of living in ancestral worship.

It means that we should imbibe the courageous and creative spirit that enabled our leaders to become great and apply it to today's facts and needs with the same undaunted courage and candor that they would exercise if here.

If George Washington had slavishly followed his fathers we would still be a British colony. Before criticizing China and other nations for ancestral worship, we should be sure that we have acquired a safe and sane system regarding our own ancestors.

Homespun Patterns Are in Winsome PatternsNew Spring Woolens Include Plain Colors, White and Checked Designs.

The newer woolens for the spring season include homespun, both imported and domestic, in plain colors, in white and in the new tiny checked patterns. This checked design is particularly good in beige and brown, the brown used for the check on a beige ground. Kasha and silk-and-wool jersey follow the fashionable pastel shades, the "off" or, as they are variously termed by the fashion magazines, the "dusky" or "dusty" colors of beige and rose.

The tweeds for the new season come in plain colors, in small checks or in large plaided effects. The two-toned tweeds that have a reverse side in a lighter color will be a delight to the home dressmaker, for she may use the underside for trimming a coat or a dress.

Then there is a new imported woolen fabric called "frisca," a fabric with a ratine weave and a frosted appearance, which is very fashionable in the early spring fashions designed for southern wear. Its domestic counterpart is known as "Francesca," and comes in the same lovely colors of gray, apple green, rose and beige as the original. Wool taffeta is another fabric used for some of the new frocks, and fine wool rep, especially in navy blue, is very good for spring. In one of the early spring showings was noticed a navy blue cheviot used for a sailor jacket, trimmed with regulation gilt buttons, and worn with a white kasha skirt and the new broad-trimmed felt hat.

Without any doubt the new styles have had their effect on these woolens. The supple, lustrous lines that swing with motion and are straight and clinging in quiescence demand the fabrics be equally supple and light, and these two qualities distinguish the woolens for spring. Indeed, they are almost as easy to manipulate as silks.

Silks this season are divided into plain colors and prints. Among the plain color fabrics are the new so-called "raw" silks, shantung, tussar, rajah, pongee, that are enjoying so wide a vogue in two-piece frocks for the South. Plain color crepes de chine in sports ensembles consisting of a one-piece frock and a circular shoulder cape to match are also very fashionable. Taffetas, too, are smart for spring in colors like navy blue, fawn, beige and even white.

Girdle, Brassiere and Athletic Belt Popular

With the latest fashions in lingerie is the girdle, the brassiere, the athletic belt, or whatever answers in lieu of the old-style stays. The new version of the corset is presented in many attractive models. Most of them are made of silk or near silk, of brocade or some novelty material, daintily flowered or figured muslin. A popular form of girdle is made of satin ribbon, two or three inches wide, which is laid with overlapping edges around the body and so arranged as to fit the figure. To this may be attached side garters, or it may be worn with equal convenience without the elastics, if round garters are used. Women who eliminate as much as possible in underclothing wear "corsets" of finely tucked batiste or satin or of lace. The brassieres of Irish, of fillet and of the novelty all-over laces are most attractive. Some extreme novelties are trimmed with metal lace or are made entirely of gilt or silver lace, lined with crepe or chiffon.

From Paris have been received many pretty jackets to be worn in bed, or for other purposes.

New Wide Hats

The large hats are not being overlooked during the winter resort season. Indeed they are of such size that it is impossible to overlook them. The majority are of hair braid, but some models have been designed in satin.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT IN FULL SWAYMonroe, New Holland and Pickaway are Winners in Hard Fought Games.

The Basketball tournament is in full sway.

The Monroe boys won a close game from Saltcreek by a 11 to 10 score. This game required an overtime period. The only score was the result of a foul.

New Holland bested Scioto in one of the best high school games ever played on the C. A. C. floors. The game was in doubt up to the last minute. No more than four points separated the teams at any one time. The game ended New Holland 26 Scioto 22.

Lyons, left guard, was the star of the game, making 15 of the team's points. Cook, big center for New Holland played a splendid game, as back guard. Trego was Scioto's main cog, with Furnis a capable running mate.

Williamsport surprised many by holding Pickaway to a tie until the final minutes, when Enoch and Rittinger gathered several pretty shots and put them in the lead 22-15 at the final whistle. Enoch played best for Pickaway, while Radcliff and Lanman played best for Williamsport.

The Evolution of Jack's Bean Stalk

THAT must have been a tough old bean-stalk that permitted Jack to climb to the giant's castle in the clouds. In height it out-distanced the Tower of Babel, which aimed at heaven but never got there.

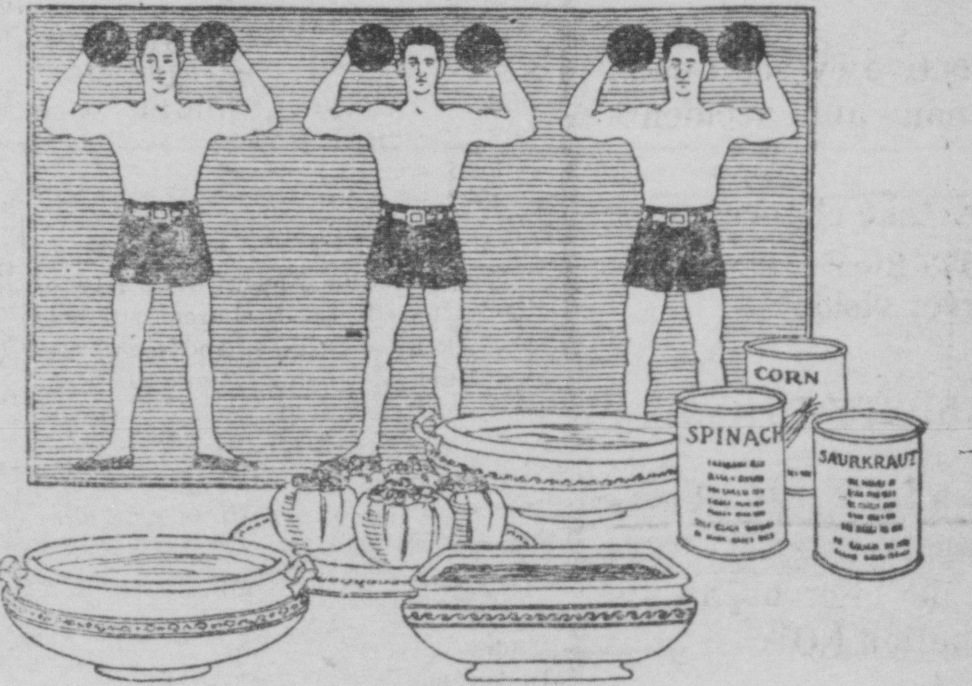

If the stringless beans we have today were as tough as those on Jack's picturesque ladder must have been, they would not be as popular as they are. The modern "stringless bean" is not one of the miracles performed by that wizard of plant life, Luther Burbank, but is an achievement of the canning industry.

Only when she buys them in a can is the housewife able to save herself the trouble of "stringing" beans. The commercial canner, with its highly perfected equipment, has relieved her of this burden.

Now is the time to eat stringless beans, because of their remarkable cheapness. Owing to the unusually large crops, last summer, the canners put up an enormous amount of this healthful and delicious food, and therefore are selling at a great reduction, in order to reduce their large stock on hand. So the consumer is reaping the benefit. And the thrifty housewife will take advantage of the "special sales", to stock her supply-shelf with a goodly amount of stringless beans, rejoicing that she may thus practice economy and at the same time save herself time and trouble.

Besides cooking stringless beans in white sauce or butter, here is a delicious way of serving them "peasant fashion":—

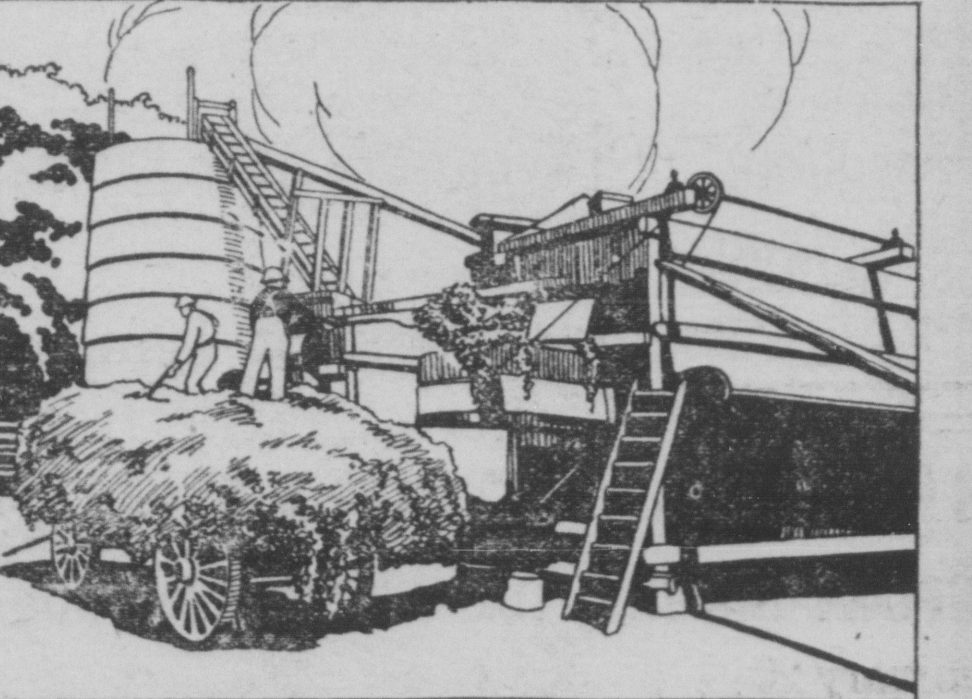

Simmer contents of a No. 2 size can of beans with one ham bone or a half-pound of bacon fat, for an hour. Season, and serve with vinegar. The bean's lack of fat is thus supplied.

Foods That Are Health Builders

IN the past, people were inclined to eat what they wanted, regardless of whether it was good for them, and got away with it because of their active, physical lives. But we moderns, who get so much less exercise, are learning that we need to eat foods which will keep the system open and cleansed from poisonous waste matter.

Vegetables and whole wheat bread best answer this purpose. City people eat too much meat and white bread. Certain vegetables which rank high as system-cleansing—and therefore health-building—foods are spinach, sauerkraut, tomatoes, peas, stringless beans and corn. All are rich in vitamins and in the elements which are body-builders and sources of heat and energy. In addition, they supply bulk and roughage. Spinach and sauerkraut are particularly valuable as brooms, to sweep out the digestive tract. The lactic acid of sauerkraut makes it an excellent disinfectant, besides. It is regarded as one of the most powerful preventive and corrective foods.

Spinach and sauerkraut have recently been added to the list of canned foods, and scientific tests prove that both retain their valuable properties in the can. In fact, in the case of spinach, it has been discovered that the canned product is from five to ten times richer in Vitamin C than home-cooked spinach. Canned tomatoes are known to be one of the richest sources of vitamins. Beans, peas and corn rank almost equally high as health-builders. The convenience of having all these foods in ready-to-serve form cannot be over-estimated.

Some Facts About Peas

IT'S no "Irish bull" to say that canned peas are fresher than many of the fresh peas we buy. The reason is that the vinery is practically next door to the cannery. The vines are moved down in the early morning, and the entire canning process is completed before night. But the so-called "fresh" peas, after being shipped from farm to market and thence to the consumer, are seldom really fresh when they reach the table.

Moreover, peas come out of the can as fresh as when they went in, because the complete exclusion of the air, and the process of sterilization eliminate all possibility of deterioration.

Grade, in canned peas, is merely a matter of size. Before the peas enter the cans, they are graded; first being sifted through the different-sized meshes of five "squirrel-cage" machines, and afterward picked over by hand. The smallest are the tenderest, but the largest contain more food value.

Appetizing dishes that may be made from peas are:—

Baked Peas—Heat in their own liquor the contents of two cans of peas. Drain, pour into baking-dish and season. Break six eggs over peas, dot with butter and bake ten minutes in hot oven. This will serve six and will take the place of meat.

Peas En Casserole—Put 24 small white onions into casserole. Add 2 cans of peas, including liquor; 6 tablespoons butter, 2 bunches parsley, 1 teaspoon powdered mint, and seasoning. This makes enough for six.

AMUSEMENTS

Jack Holt has been called upon to flirt with extreme danger on many occasions during his screen career with Paramount, but it is safe to say that he will always remember his many thrilling escapes during the filming of "The Ancient Highway."

"The Ancient Highway" pictured from James Oliver Curwood's story, teems with thrills.

Holt was first called upon to engage in a smashing fist encounter with Montagu Love. The action called for Holt to have traveled all around the world to find Love and avenge his father's death, caused by Love's machinations.

Holt tracks Love to the office of the latter, Love in the intervening years having become a multi-millionaire profiteer in the lumber business. In Love's office Holt and Love battle to a finish, urged on by Director Irvin Willat, who insisted on a real fight. And it was a real fight.

Later, in one of the sequences of the story, Holt was called upon to race down a raging torrent in a frail canoe just ahead of close to a million on-rushing logs.

Holt's efforts were directed in getting to a certain point ahead of the log jam and there set off a number of sticks of dynamite, real dynamite, too.

This accomplished, the theme takes another sensational turn, calling for Holt to go to the rescue of an assistant, who had slipped and was caught in the logs close by the dynamite charge.

The many thrilling sequences were accomplished without any serious injury despite the chances taken, but Holt claims he will always remember the deep full breath he took when the picture was finished.

In "The Ancient Highway," due on Monday at the Met theater, the featured players are Jack Holt, Billie Dove and Montagu Love.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x
x x x x x x x x

The biggest thrill of many seasons in the American theater was provided late in the summer of 1924 when "What Price Glory" burst on Broadway with a report which has echoed across the continent. "What Price Glory" is the only play about the war of which men who have been in the thick of it say; "This is it!"

"What Price Glory" comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus, for one week beginning Monday February 22, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

This picture of the war is revealed almost unconsciously by its authors. Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson never planned to make history with their play. Their modest intent was to tell the story—a grinning comedy, in truth—of a battle between two hardboiled Marines for the favors of a peasant girl in a shell-torn corner of France.

But so alive, throbbing and hard-fisted are those characters, so vivid are the scenes, that those who have yearned to know how the war looked and felt and tasted come away from "What Price Glory" with the conviction that they now know something of the war as these men know it. Gargantuan figures they are, Flagg and Quirt. Beasts, men and gods—something of each. To know them is to see life magnified, made more beautiful, more horrible, more devilish and more divine than we, in our cramped lives, can hope to live it.

Captain Flagg and Sergeant Quirt, as impersonated by Louis Wolheim and William Boyd, are unforgettable. Indeed the whole company of Marines, French peasants, staff officers and camp followers is so perfectly cast that the play offers a cross section of the French front seen thru the eyes of a laughter loving American.

"What Price Glory" was born of the experiences of Laurence Stallings on the battle fields of France. Its characters and incidents are lifted from life. Veterans of the Marine corps visit the play again and again to greet with cheers of laughter and reminiscent chuckles the whole string of characters and incidents of the story.

To the men who were over there, "What Price Glory" will recall the most acute moments of their lives. To the millions of others it has the incalculable value of satisfying a hunger to know what the World war really meant. Here it is—the grinning, brutal, heroic truth.
See it! Then—you'll know.

ONE POINT GAINED

By Persons Who Follow Almanac Signs In Planting.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 18.—(U.P.)—Ancient superstitions regarding the advisability of planting crops when the moon was in certain phases may turn out to have a sound basis in scientific fact.

This surprising statement was made here today at the convention of the Southern section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. D. T. MacDougal, one of the world's chief authorities on plant life.

Dr. MacDougal pointed out that while moonlight is reflected sunlight, it is peculiar in that it consists of what scientists call polarized light. Ordinary light consists of light waves vibrating in all directions. Polarized light consists of light vibrating in one direction only.

"British scientists claim to have discovered that plants grow faster in polarized light," Dr. MacDougal told the convention. "If this is true, it may constitute one of the most important discoveries ever made in the study of plants."

"The committee on photosynthesis of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the committee concerned with the plant life, of which I happen to be chairman, regards these British announcements of such importance that we are planning to have the experiments repeated in this country and probably will invite some of the British workers to visit this country."

"In this connection, it should be pointed out that recent studies seem to show that certain bacteria grow faster in polarized light."

"For example, there is a bacteria which causes dead fish to rot and makes them appear phosphorescent when seen lying on the beach at night."

"This bacteria apparently grows faster in polarized light, for recent experiments seem to show that fish rot faster in polarized light."

Dr. MacDougal pointed out that there have been cases in the past where certain superstitions were based on accumulated experience of the human race and so turned out finally to have actual foundations in fact.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A most enjoyable day was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Miller of Groveport, on February 12.

This being their fortieth wedding anniversary, their children planned to surprise them by having a family dinner. As they had not thought of the event, it proved to be a successful surprise.

The baskets were soon relieved of their burdens and the table, which seated nineteen, fairly groaned with its load of good things to eat. Fluttering red hearts adorned the dining room and table.

Those present were Dr. S. D. Graumlich and family, Orren Smith and family, Walter Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller and Mr. and Mrs. William Miller.—Pickaway County News.

Politeness Extraordinary

A trained nurse in Touro infirmary says the politest and most grateful man she ever met is a patient in her ward, who was eloquent and profuse in his thanks when she gave him a big dose of castor oil.

The habit of sending people to America to be made indentured servants was discontinued at the time of the American revolution. The habit of sending maidens to become the wives of colonists was discontinued the latter part of the Seventeenth century or the early Eighteenth.

Suspensions About Wall Street and How They Arise

By FRANCIS H. Sisson, President

Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association

WOULD-BE economists, political orators and the general public make frequent positive assertions about the functions of Wall Street without any realization of what constitutes Wall Street or what purpose it serves. Lack of knowledge breeds suspicion. Yet it is not difficult to understand the nature and function of Wall Street. Let us set down a few of the facts which account for the existence and nation-wide, as well as international, services of Wall Street.

There are 316 banks in New York with combined capital and surplus of about $1,400,000,000. Their deposits aggregate over $11,500,000,000, and during 1924 their total volume of business reached nearly $250,000,000,000. The New York Stock Exchange in 1925 sold 433,000,000 shares of stock and in 1924 $3,828,000,000 worth of bonds. Wall Street is the national credit and money market. It is just as essential that there be markets for money and for stocks, bonds, mortgages and other securities as for cotton, corn, tobacco, wheat, hogs and other commodities.

If Wall Street Were Destroyed

Wall Street is the natural evolution of the forces of trade and finance. It exists because there is imperative need for it in the nation's business. If some cataclysm should destroy the financial district of New York we would see frantic efforts to re-establish it so that trade and industry could continue. If the production and marketing of agricultural and industrial commodities did not need such a financial institution, Wall Street would not exist.

We depend upon the farmer to help maintain the general level of prosperity. Wall Street as a money market is called upon to finance the growth and marketing of farm crops. Many Wall Street bankers were born and raised on farms. If they were not thoroughly familiar with agricultural requirements, they could not hold their present positions in the financial world.

In the period of deflation, Wall Street suffered proportionately as much as the farmer. The aggregate losses of Wall Street banks mounted to a staggering sum. Wall Street is not an independent institution, but an organic part of the country's business system, necessarily reflecting the ups and downs of business.

Four Billion Dollars

An approximate estimate of the main items in Wall Street's financial operations in handling farm crops shows that New York banks for the purpose of agriculture put out commercial loans to the value of one billion dollars, hold bankers' acceptances for another billion, buy commercial paper such as cattle and sheep loans for a third billion and carry balances of country banks for a fourth billion. Thus Wall Street furnishes a $4,000,000,000 river of credit annually to produce farm products and float them to market.

The outward flow to rural banks enables them to make the required advances on farm crops and for warehousing and handling cotton, tobacco, wheat, raisins, prunes and countless other products. Outside of his own personal efforts on his farm, Wall Street is the biggest single factor in the prosperity of the farmer. After these commodities have been moved to market, the money used in handling them returns to Wall Street for investment. New York is the largest security market in the country and offers a use and market for the idle capital of the rural banks between crops.

Funds from every part of the country flow to New York, attracted by the greater opportunity for their profitable use found in this center. Thus the accumulations of deposits are large, and in turn the openings for the useful employment of these funds in the facilitation of trade, industry and investment are upon a correspondingly ample scale. It is clear that these funds must be employed sanely and constructively and to the real service of the business community. Otherwise they would inevitably soon be withdrawn.

Huge Investments Help Farmers

These huge investment operations in Wall Street are of significance to the farmer. Much of the $10,000,000,000 invested in farm mortgages was advanced by Eastern financial institutions. In no sense is Wall Street's interest in agriculture local or sectional. The main function of New York financial institutions is to send money where it is most needed.

Another service rendered to agriculture by Wall Street is the purchase of Farm Loan bonds, Joint Stock Land Bank bonds and the debentures of the Intermediate Credit Banks. There is a total of $1,451,800,000 of this paper outstanding, of which New York banks took about one billion.

Wall Street loans to country banks are made at low rates, usually below 4½ per cent. The local banker's rates to his customers are adjusted to local conditions, which cannot justly be laid at the door of Wall Street.

General financial service to other industries related to agriculture also helps the farmer substantially. Wall Street loans to the packers, railroads, millers and farm-machinery manufacturers to help them serve agriculture.

Wall Street is as necessary and serviceable in the handling of credit and capital as is the cold-storage plant in caring for seasonal perishable products. The necessity of such a credit center in a country with a $60,000,000,000 annual business is obvious.

What the People Want

Every great international bank in New York maintains close relations with thousands of other banks in the United States and in every foreign country of any importance. The movements of commerce and investment are supported upon this interrelated system of domestic and foreign banks. Thus it comes about that the products of the farm, factory and mine are financed by these banks all the way from the producer to the foreign consumer.

Wall Street in the discharge of its true functions as the nation's reservoir of capital and credit includes the whole business community in its field of operations. Its control lies with the people. Their demands govern it, and their presence or absence from the market determines its trends. Wall Street prospers as farming and industry prosper. Its service is to the people of the whole country and, for them, to the people of other countries. It is the direct reflection of American agriculture, industry and commerce.—From the Country Gentleman.

thinking of buying, the chances are that he never would have bought it after he got the bank's report. Banks can get the record of any company issuing stock and if the company is not well financed, if it has not been paying dividends, if the officers of the company are not men with clean, honest records, the bank can find that out. The radio company that James invested in made a disgraceful failure a month after he bought his stock. If he had taken the trouble to find out something about it first, doubtless he would have had money today.

"Well, Auntie, that may be true about the stock, but who in the world would anticipate thieves?" "Anybody who reads the papers today knows that thieves are pretty active," said Aunt Emmy dryly. "Why ignore them? If James had kept his bonds in a safe place, at a bank, he would have had them yet. James has been careless, if not actually stupid. His bad luck is mostly James himself."—Anne B. Ayms.

BANKERS HELP

The Minnesota Bankers Association at its annual convention adopted the following resolution:

"We believe it to be the duty of every banker in the state of Minnesota to co-operate with our Agricultural Committee and to call the attention of its farmer patrons to the excellent work being done by our Agricultural College, and the means thereby available for the improvement of farming conditions and for the practical education of the boys and girls from our farms."

EAT FRUIT AND KEEP THIN

Those seeking to melt the too abundant if not too solid flesh that surrounds them find a valuable aid in most of the fruits except bananas, which are largely made up of starch and fattening. Sweets are craved by every human being and are a necessity for health and vigor. But sweets are menaces to the sylph-like figure if taken in the ordinary form of desserts, cakes, pies and the like made from sugar.

They are religiously forbidden by those directing the diet of the man or woman determined to reduce the waist line and other too opulent curves. But the sugar must be taken somehow and fruit offers the solution and in a form which does not put on fat.

A diet recommended consists of fresh fish, lean meats and chicken, eggs, bread in small quantities when stale or toasted, fresh green vegetables, and all kinds of fruit except bananas. Fruits both fresh and stewed without sugar are permissible in the diet of the person seeking to grow thinner.

An apple or an orange or a bunch of grapes is a life saver when the pangs of hunger set in between meals because they can be eaten without the danger of undoing the work of abstinence from the fat-forming foods.

Baked apples, orange juice or pulp, grapefruit, grapes, and the small fruits eaten without sugar or cream are all easily digested and will not add an ounce of superfluous weight. If thoroughly ripe so that the fruit sugars are properly developed they will supply a sufficiency of sweets to the dieting person and satisfy the craving.

Save Carpenter's Bill

Before sending for a carpenter when a door sticks, see if the screws of the hinges are tight. Frequently that is all that is the matter and a screwdriver will quickly remedy the trouble. Should the door refuse to hold up with just this tightening, try replacing the screws with the next size larger.

MICKIE SAYS—

One Idea of Opportunity

Too many people think opportunity means a chance to get money without earning it.—Milwaukee Leader.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

"The president has asked all the governors to appoint delegates to a national safety convention to assemble in March. While we know of no formula to meet the situation he has outlined the conference may write history by focusing public attention on the national aspects of a problem made up of a multitude of incidents at street corners and cross roads. Many communities are at work seeking and applying remedies.

The figures set forth in this article certainly ought to be a very convincing argument for

Here's Latest Menu for Most Effective Washington Party

A particularly novel and pleasing effect for a Washington birthday anniversary party may be obtained by serving a dish or two suggestive of some phase in the life of the "father of our country." Washington was a lover of good food, as indicated in the personal cookbook of his wife, Martha. Her interesting manual of cooking contains many things—fiction, history and a glossary of unused terms, as well as such quaint directions to a mouth-watering result as the following:

"To make an humble pie," she wrote, "take ye humbles of a deer or a calve's heart, or pluck a sheep's heart, perboyle it & when it is cold shread it small with beefe suet & season it with cloves, mace, nutmeg & ginger beaten small & mingle with it currans & Salt, put all into ye pie & set it in the oven an houre, then take it out, cut it up and put in some claret wine, melted butter & sugar beat together, then cover it a little & serve it up."

"Humble pies" have been lost sight of in the years, but we have many suggestive dishes which may be used effectively in connection with the Washington party. The following are examples of what may be accomplished:

Menu No. 1
Cherry Cocktail
Maryland Chicken
Butterscotch Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Cabbage
Crabapple Jelly
Red Cabbage Salad
Washington Pie
Salted Nuts

Cherry Cocktail
1 cup red canned cherries
1 cup white canned cherries
Drain cherries from liquid and stone. Add lemon juice and grape fruit to give a tart taste. Chill and when ready to serve pour into tall cocktail glasses. Sprinkle top with shredded cocoanut.

Maryland Chicken
Two 2½ lb. chickens (broilers)
Fat
Pepper
1 cup evaporated milk diluted with
1 cup water
2 tbsp. flour
Dress, clean and cut up chickens. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs. Place in a well oiled dripping pan, and bake twenty minutes in a 450° F. oven.

then reduce the temperature to 350° F. and cook until tender, about twenty minutes longer. Baste every ten minutes during cooking with ¼ cup melted butter. Remove to platter and pour around a cream sauce made of fat in dripping pan the flour, diluted milk, salt and pepper.

Butterscotch Sweet Potatoes
6 medium-sized sweet potatoes
¼ cup brown sugar
½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup corn syrup

Wash, pare, and cook potatoes in boiling salted water to cover for about twenty minutes; drain and lay in an oiled dripping pan. Brown in a hot oven. Arrange on a platter and pour over potatoes the following sauce: Boil the butter, sugar and syrup until a thick syrup is formed. Last, stir in the evaporated milk. Serves 6.

Washington Pie
CAKE
¼ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 tbsp. evaporated milk diluted with 5 tbsp. water
1½ cups flour
2½ tsp. baking powder

CREAM FILLING
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup flour
2½ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup water
½ tsp. vanilla and
¼ tsp. orange

Cake. Cream butter, add one-half of sugar and cream well. Beat eggs and add other half of sugar. Combine sugar mixtures and cream until perfectly smooth. Add the flour which has been sifted with the baking powder and the milk all at once. Beat vigorously for one and one-half minutes. Bake in two round, shallow tins in a 375° F. oven about 25 minutes. Spread between layers the cream filling and sprinkle top with powdered sugar.

Filling: Mix dry ingredients, add eggs slightly beaten, and pour on gradually the diluted scalded milk. Cook fifteen minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly until thickened, afterwards occasionally. Cool and flavor.

Rolls
½ cup evaporated milk diluted with 1½ cups hot water
2½ tsp. butter
2½ tsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 yeast cake (1 oz.) dissolved in ¾ cup lukewarm water
7½ cups bread flour
Add butter, sugar, and salt to diluted milk, then add dissolved yeast and half the flour. Beat thoroughly. Cover, and let rise in a warm place (about 85° F.) free from draughts of air. When double in bulk cut down and add enough flour to knead. Let rise again, knead, and roll out to one-half inch in thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Crease each piece through middle, brush half of top with melted butter, fold, and press edges together. Place in an oiled pan, let rise, and bake in a 425° F. oven. will require about fifteen min-

TAX SETTLEMENT.

Pickaway county stands eleventh in the list in making its tax returns and settlement with the state.

Hotbed Is Help to Early Garden

Protection From Cold Winds and Warm Sunlight Is Important.

To have plants in time for the early garden hotbeds and cold frames may be used by the home gardener with good results. Both of these garden accessories are easily built with small expense.

Place for Hotbeds.

"January is the time to prepare the hotbed over most of the central South," says Robert Schmidt of the department of horticulture at North Carolina State college. "Place the hotbeds in a sheltered spot with a southern exposure. There they will be protected from the cold winds and will receive the warm sunlight. The cold frames should be handy to both the house and the garden, so that they can receive constant attention. The soil in and around the frames needs to be well drained."

Professor Schmidt states that a hotbed six by six feet will be large enough for the average garden. Standard hotbed glass sash are three by six feet and can be bought or made at home.

Heating Material.

Fresh manure containing about one-third straw litter makes the best heating material for the hotbed. The manure must first be piled up under a shed until it begins to heat and should be turned each two or three days until the whole mass is heating evenly. The pit in which it is placed should be about eighteen inches deep. Pack in the manure to within about four inches from the top and then build the frame out of inch boards to fit over the pit.

Do not put in the seeds until the first heating is over and the temperature has fallen to about 85 or 90 degrees, advises Professor Schmidt. Some moisture must also be added.

The cold frame is made in about the same way as the hotbed except that no heating material is needed. This frame is used to harden off plants from the hotbed before setting them in the open garden. The frame should be covered with a light canvas or heavy muslin.

Proper Food and Light Are Poultry Essentials

Feeds containing vitamin A, and arrangements for direct sunlight to utilize the vital ultra-violet ray are as necessary part of the poultry farm equipment as chicken houses and pens, experiments of recent years at the Kansas State Agricultural college under the direction of the poultry husbandry department and Dr. J. S. Hughes of the chemistry department have shown.

To prevent roup, according to Doctor Hughes, the flock must be fed such things as yellow corn, alfalfa hay, or green leaves—foods which contain vitamin A. Weak legs in growing chicks can be cured by treatment with ultra-violet light either from direct sunlight or from the quartz tube mercury vapor arc lamp. Foods rich in vitamin D also are a corrective for this condition.

Barley Used in Laying Mash Meets With Favor

Farmers with barley to be used as poultry feed, might use it to the best advantage by adopting the Cornell scratch grain and mash mixture for laying hens. The scratch grain formula consists of 500 pounds of cracked corn, 200 pounds of wheat, 200 pounds of barley and 100 pounds of heavy oats. If good heavy oats are not available, they advise leaving the oats out of the scratch grain mixture.

In the laying mash 100 pounds of ground barley is used in place of the ground oats usually recommended in a ration of that type. The mash consists of 100 pounds each of yellow corn meal, ground barley, middlings, bran and meat scrap containing 50 to 55 per cent protein. Three pounds of fine table salt should be thoroughly mixed in each 500 pounds of the laying mash.

Exercise for Brood Sow

The brood sow should get plenty of exercise during the winter months. The sow that keeps out of doors most of the time when the weather is good is much more likely to produce a strong litter than the sow that lies around in the barn or shed. A sow that is too fat will not produce a strong litter of pigs—neither will she be able to take as good care of them. Give the brood sows the run of a pasture lot during the winter if possible, and scatter some feed over the ground so they will be induced to take plenty of exercise.

FARM NOTES

Grow a cash crop. Once a year it will bring in quite a sum of money.

Just minding his own business will keep a farmer going all the time 12 months of the year.

An acre of twenty-bushel corn fodder made into silage will put twice as much gain on live stock as it will if fed from the shock.

Produce something that your neighboring farmers will want to buy. It may be seed, breeding stock or some variety of food that they don't raise

PARENTS FIND GOOD BOOKS IN THE LIBRARY

"If you are a father, how much study do you make of the business of fatherhood?" asks Professor M. V. O'Shea in his reading course "Our Children," published by the American Library association and just received at the Circleville Public Library. "If you are a mother, which comes first in the budgeting of your time and energy—your children or other matters?" "How many books have you read with a view of securing expert counsel in the rearing of your children?"

After discussing the complexity of child life, physical, mental, social and moral development, the teen age, etc., the author suggests for reading a half dozen books covering the fundamentals of child training. He says that in his selection of books he was careful to recommend only those which are readable and which can be easily adapted to practical use by the average father and mother.

The first book suggested is "The Child, His Nature and His Needs." This volume should be of value to all students of children, teachers and intelligent parents. In our own library it seems to be the outstanding book in its field. So far, however, it has found its way chiefly into the hands of the teachers, tho it is an especially desirable book for the parents themselves. Its modest cost would be a wise investment for parents and no doubt many who read the library copy will want to purchase one for their home libraries.

The Ohio Parent-Teacher Magazine recently published a study outline for clubs based on this book.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham of North Court street, are entertaining little Joan Jones, of Columbus, a three year old niece of Mrs. Graham.

The Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood held its regular meeting Thursday, February 18, in the social room of the church with E. E. Wolf presiding. Following the business meeting a splendid buffet lunch was served by Frank Palm and his assistants. The following program was given:

The first subject, "What the Farmers are Up Against," Clarence Ater being absent the subject was thoroughly discussed at the close of the meeting.

The next speaker, Lawrence Goeller, gave one of his famous talks on "Business," which the chamber of commerce and a number of other organizations have enjoyed so much. A certain writer said "Spoil the child's imagination and you have spoiled the foundation of the child's knowledge." Mr. Goeller pointed out how business imagination is just as important to the business man.

The next subject, "Thoughts on Lent" by C. L. Mack. He very forcibly pointed out what the Lenten season should mean to each and every one of us.

The next meeting, March 4, the Ashville Brotherhood will be guests and George C. Griffith, as master of ceremonies assures a good program and all members should be present.

ATTEND THE BIG SUPPER ON NEXT MONDAY EVENING GIVEN BY THE METHODIST BROTHERHOOD.

JARVIS PROMOTED.

T. B. Jarvis, attorney for the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, announced Friday that he had been appointed first assistant to Wayne B. Wheeler, federal counsel for the National Anti-Saloon league. Jarvis will assume the new position March 1. His headquarters will be in Washington D. C.
